Japanese Premier Completes New Cabinet

Hitler Admirer Names Veterans To Replace Men In Konoye Posts

New Government Expected To Pursue Determined Course Against Russia and United States

(By The Associated Press)
TOKYO, Saturday, Oct. 18.—Japan's premier-designate, Lieut. Gen. Eiki Tojo, himself a career soldier and admirer of German military methods, has completed a new cabinet of veterans thoroughly familiar with Russian and Manchurian affairs. The personnel will be announced this afternoon.

Informed sources said the new government, as a whole nationalistic in outlook, would be pledged to pursue a determined and strong course for Japan toward the United States and other foreign powers and at the same time strengthen the national wartime structure.

These sources said that at the same time he was determined to carry out the aims of the Konoye cabinet in which he was war minister and which resigned Thursday in acknowledged inability to solve grave questions of national policy.

These problems are chiefly critical relations with the United States and Soviet Russia and disposition of the "China affair." The new leader chosen by the throne once envisioned the possibility of simultaneous war with China and Russia.

The 56-year-old, cigar-chomping Tojo, thus lifted from the post of war minister to be probably premier and war minister combined, once took council with ranking army men.

Victory for Axis
Competent observers felt that his appointment was a victory for the Axis, which has been pressing for more active Japanese support in the European war.

It was understood that Tojo would be given full general's rank, more in keeping with his dual role as premier.

Tojo hoped to line up a cabinet for time for presentation Saturday afternoon to Emperor Hirohito after the emperor returns to the palace from ceremonies in honor of the war dead at Tokyo's Yasujuni shrine.

Tojo was commissioned to form the new government upon the recommendation of Japanese senior statesmen to Marquis Koichi Kido, lord keeper of the privy seal. The conference leading to this decision lasted two hours and forty-five minutes.

Former Premiers Attend
The council of elders brought together nearly all the living former premiers of Japan, in addition to the lord privy seal and Dr. Yoshimichi Hara, president of the privy council.

One former premier, count Keigo Koyama, 91, left his sick bed and came to the palace from Atami by train and wheel chair, accompanied by doctors and nurses with an oxygen inhalator.

Solemnly, behind his shell-cracked glasses, the premier-designate said, after leaving the palace: "I have received the imperial command to form a new cabinet and am overwhelmed with a feeling of awe. I retired from the presence of these bombs to have come from the destroyer Greer that was pursuing it."

Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, minister of the navy under Konoye, held an important conference with high members of the naval ministry and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Roosevelt Orders Study of Proposal To Match German Production Efforts

President Considering Spending 50 Billions a Year, Half of American National Income

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Amid growing tension over developments abroad, high administration sources revealed today they were studying a proposed $50,000,000,000 a year "victory program."

While the program is only in the study stage, it was learned authoritatively that President Roosevelt had ordered the army, navy and Office of Production Management to map out a program that would match the productive efforts of the Germans.

The Germans are supposed to be spending more than half of their national income on arms, and $50,000,000,000 a year would be about half the prospective American national income.

Officials who revealed these studies, however, cautioned that "there is nothing formal about this," and pointed out that it hasn't gone far enough yet to be taken up even tentatively with the budget bureau.

Seek Effect on Economy
With priorities already disrupting production of many consumer items, officials want to figure out more clearly what the effect of such a program would be on American economy before getting down to serious consideration of it, it was explained.

The president was reported to have asked for this study because of a feeling that the American defense effort—while already de-

Navy Announces Pacific Program Is on Schedule

Keeping Pace with General Expansion Plans, Statement Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—As if to serve notice that it was feeling fit for any showdown in the Pacific, the United States navy announced tonight that its program of constructing air bases in that vast ocean is progressing very well.

Without so much as a mention of Japan, where an Axis-minded premier has just been chosen, the official announcement said:

"In short, the new Pacific bases program is keeping well pace of the general expansion program of the navy in building up the nation's two ocean navy to the greatest array of sea-power the world has ever seen."

Ships Ordered In

Only a few hours earlier the navy had announced that it had ordered "a very few" American merchant ships into port for instructions. It did not say where these ships are located, but other sources indicated that the international crisis with Japan had sent a number of vessels speeding to safety from Pacific war clouds.

These two developments followed increasing predictions on Capitol Hill that the new Tokyo government might strike at Siberia, now that the defenders of Moscow are fighting with backs to the wall.

Steinhart Leaves Moscow
The situation in Moscow was further emphasized when the state department formally announced that United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, together with other members of the Moscow diplomatic corps, high officials of the Soviet foreign office and members of the American supply mission, has left Moscow for some destination eastward.

Among those traveling with Steinhardt are the United States military and naval attaches, other embassy personnel, two representatives of the American Red Cross, and ten American newspaper correspondents.

Harriman Arrives Home in Bomber

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman, head of the United States delegation to the Moscow conference on Russian war needs, was reported to have arrived in this capital tonight in a bomber which flew direct from London.

With Harriman, it was understood, were several army officers. The direct flight from London, where Harriman returned after conferences with British and Russian officials in Moscow, will put into the hands of the government the latest information on the status and requirements of the Red army, hard pressed by advancing German forces.

German Armies Reported Holding Positions in Vicinity of Moscow

Berlin Reports Nazis So Close to Capital That Guns Can Be Heard; Advance in Two Areas

BERLIN, Oct. 17 (AP)—The German army's resistance typified by Red counter-attacks which hurled old-fashioned cavalrymen head-on at German tanks.

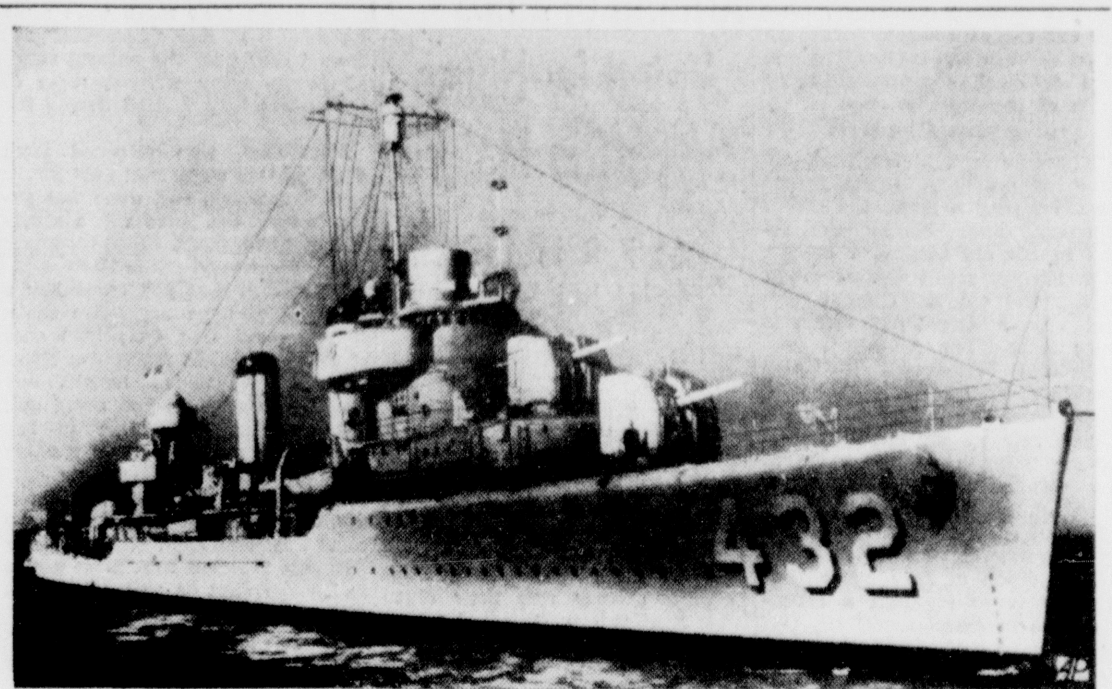

In a single such clash—between what the Nazis called the arms of the present and last centuries—it was claimed that the Russian units were decimated and that 800 prisoners, 500 horses and fifty-one cannons were captured.

Nazis Praise Rumania
The capture of Odessa, which was credited largely to Rumanian arms, brought a shower of praise for Rumania along with suggestions that the country could expect commensurate recognition in the Axis's proposed new order.

The booty seized in that long-besieged city, said the high command, "cannot yet be estimated." A German war reporter disclosed, however, that the Russians had set fire to all oil tanks in the city before falling back. His report did not indicate how much of Odessa had been destroyed.

Russian efforts to flee the flaming city by sea, the high command declared, had cost them at least six transports sunk by bombers and eight more badly damaged, along with a Red speedboat destroyed.

U. S. S. KEARNY STRUCK BY TORPEDO

The U. S. S. Kearny, (above) completed in 1940, was torpedoed while on patrol duty 350 miles southwest of Iceland, the navy announced. No casualties were reported and the ship was able to proceed under its own power.

Duke and Duchess Fail To Show Up For a Tea Party

Keep Hosts Waiting in Red Cross Booth in Capitol Rotunda

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—A group of Congress members waited restlessly with a fading bunch of roses and a lukewarm pot of tea today for a visit to the capitol by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor that did not take place.

Mrs. Mabel Anderson, who had expected the couple to visit a Red Cross booth in the capitol rotunda, finally gave the flowers to tourists and poured out the tea.

"I'm so sorry," she said. "We worked as hard as we could to get things ready."

Promised To Attend

Mrs. Anderson said she wrote to the duchess asking her to visit the Red Cross booth and have tea. An aide to the duke, she added, telephoned to say that the duke and duchess both would come. Mrs. Anderson then invited members of the House Foreign Affairs committee to be present, and most of them came, including Sol Bloom (D-N.Y.).

Let Rep. Mundt (R-SD), who has opposed some administration moves in the foreign field, tell the rest of the story.

He Wrote to Duke

He said that late last evening Mrs. Anderson asked him to write to the duke and duchess so that they would know members of the Foreign Affairs committee were to be present.

"I wrote them," Mundt related, "and said I thought it would be a nice thing if they could arrange to visit the Red Cross exhibit."

MOSCOW HOLDS OUT AGAINST INVADERS

MOSCOW, Saturday, Oct. 18 (AP)—Red armies before Moscow beat off one fierce attack after another by German forces battering at the western defenses of the capital, the Russians announced officially early today.

"Heavy fighting continued along the whole front," said the early morning communique, which also announced the abandonment of the Black Sea port of Odessa. "Fighting was especially stubborn in the western direction where the Red army beat off several fierce enemy attacks."

Earlier front line dispatches said the Soviet defenders had smashed two German spearheads which had penetrated defenses approximately 100 miles from the city but that the situation of the capital remained grave.

Beaten Back in West

The communique failed to specify where the assaults on the central front were stopped, but dispatches to the official press said the Germans were beaten back at Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow, and also at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest.

"The evacuation of Soviet troops from Odessa, organized by the Red army command during the past eight days, was completed in time and in perfect order," it said of the retreat from the southern city which the Germans announced they entered Thursday.

"Our troops having fulfilled their task in the Odessa area were transferred by our fleet to other sectors of the front in a perfectly orderly manner and without any losses."

"Rumors disseminated by the German radio to the effect that Soviet troops were forced to evacuate Odessa by an onslaught of German and Rumanian forces are absolutely without foundation."

"In reality the evacuation of Odessa was carried out pursuant to the decision of the supreme command of the Red army for strategic reasons and without any pressure on the part of German and Rumanian troops."

"Empty Braggings"

"Consequently statements of the German command concerning trophies allegedly captured by German and Rumanian troops in the Odessa area are nothing but empty bragging."

During German aerial thrusts against Moscow, fourteen German planes were brought down in the vicinity of the city, the Russians announced.

Attempt To Sink Destroyer Seen As Encouraging Action by Japan

Congressmen Demand Swift Retaliation for Torpedoing of the Kearny Off Iceland

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—A grim hunt was believed in progress tonight in the foggy North Atlantic for the raider which torpedoed the U. S. destroyer Kearny but failed to sink her 350 miles southwest of Iceland this morning.

Tension in the capital, meantime, was high as some members of Congress interpreted this first successful attack on an American warship since the European conflict began as a Nazi effort to encourage Japan to some new aggression in the Pacific. Angry denunciations of Hitler, and predictions of swift American retaliation came from several congressmen, and the House swiftly passed a bill authorizing the president to arm American merchantmen.

Reports circulated in maritime quarters that the navy had ordered all American merchantmen to leave far eastern waters, but the navy said it had only given "a very few" ships orders to go into port "for instructions regarding their voyages." It did not say whether these ships are in Oriental waters.

Whereabouts of Ships Unknown

The Kearny herself—$5,000,000, 1,630-ton destroyer—completed only a year ago—was presumably limping toward some American port for repairs.

The navy's brief announcement said the Kearny had been attacked while she was able despite the damage "to proceed under her own power." The text of the announcement:

"The U. S. S. Kearny, destroyer, was torpedoed this morning while on patrol duty about 350 miles south and west of Iceland. No casualties to personnel were indicated in dispatches received by the navy department. Despite the damage received, the ship is able to proceed under her own power."

"The U. S. S. Kearny is under the command of Lieut. Comdr. A. L. Danis, U. S. Navy. The ship is one of the navy's newest destroyers. She was laid down in 1939 and completed in 1940. This ship has a standard displacement of 1,630 tons. The ship is 341 feet long and has a 35-foot beam. She is armed with the standard five-inch battery of her class."

"No other details are available to the navy department at this time."

For the time being, the navy stood on that statement which, it was noted, left unanswered such questions as:

Questions Unanswered

What type of craft, submarine, surface raider or airplane, fired the torpedo? What was its nationality? Was the Kearny able to strike back?

In official circles, however, the general presumption was that a submarine fired the torpedo. While the navy declined to say what action was being taken, there was little doubt that an aggressive search was under way for the attacker.

President Roosevelt, at a press conference in Hyde Park, N. Y., said in response to questions about possible retaliation the regular navy orders applied. He noted that the torpedoing was clearly in the American defense zone.

The regular orders given the navy last Sept. 11 were to hunt down (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

26 Bishops Take Part in Ceremony Elevating Bishop Noble C. Powell

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Twenty-six bishops of the Episcopal Church, a large number of Maryland clergymen and prominent laymen attended ceremonies today for the consecration of the Very Rev. Noble C. Powell, D.D., bishop coadjutor of the Diocese of Maryland, in a formal and elaborate service at the cathedral church.

A congregation of more than 1,000 filled the church where Bishop Powell formerly was rector as long as of church dignitaries formed a front of the edifice for the impressive procession which marked the opening of the consecration ceremonies.

Bishop Powell, formerly dean of the National Cathedral at Washington, was elected last May to fill a post vacated since the Rt. Rev. Edward T. Helfenstein succeeded to the bishopric.

The choir was first in the procession, leading a delegation of laymen made up of representatives of educational institutions, civic organizations and various church societies.

Among the many bishops in the procession were Bishop Helfenstein, Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington and the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

The visiting church dignitaries resplendent in brilliant scarlet, purple and white ceremonial robes, walked slowly up the aisle and took their places in seats along the central aisle of the crowded church.

The motion for a mistrial was made at this point—some of the counsel contending that U. S. Attorney Harold M. Kennedy had whispered "What's that?" when Kumble's voice faltered. Neither Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers nor the court stenographer heard the alleged whisper.

For twenty-nine days, the government placed in evidence radio equipment allegedly used by the rearing; maps, charts, blueprints, volumes of data on naval and commercial ships contracted for or being built; sheafs of radio messages between the FBI's "spy" station on Long Island and the Gestapo station in Hamburg; and thousands of feet of motion picture film showing the suspects in conference with Se-

Ambassador Steinhardt and Staff Leave Russia for Safety in East

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The state department said today United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, together with other members of the Moscow diplomatic corps, high officials of the Soviet foreign office and members of the American Supply Mission, has left Moscow for a destination to the east.

With Steinhardt are all the members of the Moscow embassy staff, with the exception of two secretaries and three clerks, who are remaining in the Nazi-besieged capital for the time being.

Also traveling eastward by train with the ambassador, the department said, are the military and naval attaches of the United States, two representatives of the American Red Cross, and ten American correspondents.

The correspondents were identified only by their last names but were believed here to include Henry Cassidy, and Robert Magidoff of the Associated Press, C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times, Wallace Carroll, Henry Shapiro and M. S. Leander of the United Press; Alice Leone Moate and Quentin Reynolds of Colliers' magazine, A. T. Steele of the Chicago Daily News and Dennis McEvoy of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The embassy workers remaining in Moscow were named as Second Secretary Llewellyn Thompson of Las Animas, Colo., Third Secretary G. Frederick Reinhardt, Mills College, Calif., and three clerks: Harold N. Waddell, Brookhaven, Ga.; John Francis Morgan, Providence, R. I., and John Leino, native of Finland, and former resident of California, who has a daughter in Los Angeles and a mother in Rutland, Mass.

Water Shortage In So. Carolina Maneuvers Area

Thousands of Troops Consuming Supply near City of Cheraw

By FRANCIS F. FLEMING

CHERAW, S. C., Oct. 17 (AP)—With intake pipes sucking air and reservoir waterlines dangerously below normal, Cheraw water department authorities today predicted a crucial water shortage of water within a few days unless overdue seasonal rains replenish a reserve supply drained by thousands of troops participating in a first army maneuvers.

The Cheraw system, fed by the Pee Dee river and one of the key sources of water for the Twenty-ninth division, is at low ebb as a result of one of the longest dry periods in years, declared M. C. Thomas, pumping plant superintendent.

May Resort to Pumps

Thomas made plans to meet the anticipated emergency by using one of the fire department's centrifugal pumps should the river, now ranging from four to eight feet below normal, fail to rise above the level of water house pumps next week.

Low water level has prevented pumps from operating at a maximum for several days, he said, and reserves in the 2,250,000-gallon reservoirs have dropped steadily.

The system, which supplies army camps within a radius of fifteen miles, has been severely taxed by both first army troops and the neighboring town of Chesterfield where wells ran dry several weeks ago. Water has been trucked to Chesterfield daily to meet the emergency there until a new filtering plant is completed Jan. 1.

Enough for Three Days

Thomas said today that the supply on hand was sufficient to meet demands for the next three days, that no immediate curtailment would be enforced if dams at the Biewets Falls Power Company, fifty miles northward in North Carolina, continued to release water through power turbines at the present rate.

However, he expressed a fear that continued drought would force the power company to shut down with consequent further lowering of the river level.

The seriousness of the situation was relieved somewhat by assurances from department officials at Morven and Wadesboro, N. C., which also supply water to the troops, that wells have not yet shown signs of going dry. But officials at both towns declined to say whether their pumping facilities were adequate to bear the load should the Cheraw plant reduce its allotment.

26 Bishops

service were Presiding Bishop Tucker who recited the collect; the Rt. Rev. Beverly Dandridge, Tucker, bishop of Ohio, who delivered the charge to the new bishop-coadjutor, and Bishop Thomas Campbell Darst of East Carolina and Bishop James Gray of Upper South Carolina who presented Bishop Powell for consecration.

Two Consecrating Officers
Bishops Helfenstein and Tucker were the consecrating officers. The Rt. Rev. Robert E. L. Strider, bishop of West Virginia, was the gospel and the Rt. Rev. Hunter Wyatt Brown, bishop of Harrisburg, was epistole.

Sunlight streamed through the colorful stained glass windows as Bishop Tucker invested Bishop Powell with the chalice, the black and white silk habit of a bishop, and placed the pectoral cross, a gift of Emmanuel church, around his neck. On his finger was placed the Episcopal ring, presented by the clergy of Maryland.

Four separate rituals made up the consecration service—morning prayers, administration of holy communion to the bishop-elect and his family, the litany, and the actual consecration.

The bishops, the clergy and guests attended a luncheon at the Belvedere hotel following the service. A public reception was to be held this evening at the diocesan house in honor of the new bishop-coadjutor.

Strong Army Support

Domel, news agency with high official connections, said that Tojo had been assured the support of General Sugiyama, chief of staff of the Imperial army, and General Doto Yamada, commander-in-chief of the home forces.

Domel declared that there would be no fundamental change in the imperial government's basic policy—disposal of the China affair and establishment of the greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere.

Informed quarters said that the new cabinet would continue to work toward settlement of outstanding problems with the United States. But the premier designate is remembered for his assertion as long as 1937 that "Japan must be prepared to fight China and Russia simultaneously." His most recent active service was with the twelfth army, Japan's big garrison in Manchukuo facing Soviet Siberia.

Landon Charges Roosevelt Plays Politics and Stirs Hate in U. S.

Republican Quotes Political Writers as Saying President Is Seeking a Fourth Term

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Oct. 17 (AP)—Alf M. Landon, quoting "non-partisan, experienced political writers in Washington" as saying that President Roosevelt is seeking a fourth term, said tonight "we have the tragedy of a president selfishly playing politics and denouncing all disagreement with him as 'playing politics'."

In an address prepared for a meeting of second district women's G.O.P. clubs, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee added that the president had chosen a period of vital national emergency, when "all our thoughts should be centered on defense preparation," to provoke political controversy by a series of magazine articles.

Says FDR Stirs Hate

"The president knows that, despite his promises to the people, we are facing a lowered standard of living. Therefore, he must resort to his old tactics of stirring hate, stirring group against group, linking the old fight for a new deal with a new world order, in order to hold his supporters."

"I have co-operated with the president before. I will do so again, when he serves the public interests. But I will not run interference for him or co-operate in any sort of hoax, even to the extent of keeping still about it."

Landon charged that "under the smoke-screen of national defense a little group of New Dealers" is "attempting to establish a collective state in America."

Scores New Dealers

"It makes no difference to these New Dealers if men employed by small business are thrown out of work and compelled to rely on the cold comfort of public aid. This only increases the number dependent upon the state, and thus makes easier the establishment of the new world order."

The former Kansas governor commented that Mr. Roosevelt "is good at making phrases about this

Moscow Holds

In the Vyazma sector a heavy Red artillery fire halted the German advance, while in the Kalinin area more than 100 German tanks supported by aircraft were destroyed after the Nazis had penetrated the Russian lines Wednesday and Thursday with parachute troops, tanks and motorized infantry, the Russian reports stated.

The Russian noon communiqué acknowledged no new gains for the Germans, but made it clear terrific fighting continued, with apparently huge losses to both sides in both men and material.

Latest Red Bulletin

"During the night of Oct. 16 our troops fought the enemy along the entire front."

"Fighting was particularly fierce on various sectors of the western direction of the front."

(The Moscow radio was heard in London to announce that the German attack in the direction of Orel, 200 miles south of the capital, has slackened.)

(The general opinion in London, however, was that the German pincers were closing in on Moscow. A Russian radio broadcast heard in London and relayed by the British radio told how the workers were preparing to repel the invader, and it was learned that some messages from Moscow asked authoritative persons in London to direct communications to an address "other than Moscow."

(Although there was as yet no formal confirmation by the Russian government, it was learned that the Soviet authorities had requested the British military mission in Moscow to leave, and that it had done so.)

and eliminate any "rattlesnake raiders" in American defense waters.

Believed German Submarine
Although the navy said nothing of the raiders' nationality, members of Congress quickly assumed that it was a German submarine and talked of retaliation.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) declared the navy should retaliate "with two sinkings for each assault," and Chairman Connally (D-Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee asserted "we shall retaliate by sinking every surface raider or submarine that invades our defensive waters or threatens any of our naval vessels."

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) called it "probably the incident for which we have been waiting," but Senator Nye (R-ND), opponent of administration foreign policy, declared there was no reason it should mean war.

"When the navy operates under shooting orders that the president has given, we ought not to be surprised when these things occur," Nye said.

No Change, Johnson Says
Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) commented: "It is just another incident leading us into the war. There were no casualties, but that won't make any difference."

Speaker Rayburn contended that "this justifies statements by many of us that the United States is in danger of attack. It looks like a direct attack on the United States when there's an attack on one of its vessels."

country being the arsenal of democracy but after two years we are still too much of a paper-mache arsenal."

Landon described the aluminum collection drive as an "outrageous hoax" to arouse the war spirit. He said F. H. LaGuardia, civilian defense director, had admitted possessing plants did not want old aluminum.

The speech was broadcast over an N.B.C. network.

Arming of Ships Voted by House By Big Majority

Passes 259 to 138 after Brief but Stormy Debate

By REG INGRAHAM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—A tense, solemn House, stirred but not excited by the torpedoing of the United States destroyer Kearny, voted by an almost two-to-one majority today to authorize the arming of American merchant ships to protect them and their crews from Nazi "pirates."

The brief but momentous measure, repealing the neutrality act's two-year-old ban on the arming of merchantmen, was sent to the Senate by the overwhelming roll-call vote of 259 to 138. Short tempers flared several times during the debate which preceded the vote but the outcome was never in doubt.

Republicans divided sharply on the issue, thirty-nine of them joining with 219 Democrats and the lone American-Laborite to pass the measure. Twenty-one Democrats sided with 113 Republicans, three Progressives and one Farmer-Laborite against it.

Only one attempt was made to amend the measure, Rep. Isaac (D-Calif.) proposing that provision be made for life insurance for the crews of armed merchant ships. The proposal was ruled out, however, on the ground that it was not germane.

Browning Killed By Single Bullet

DARLINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—A single bullet fired into the back of his head killed Grainger G. Browning, Dr. James W. Ramsey, Harford county deputy medical examiner, said after an autopsy today.

The body of the 40-year-old Mt. Olive, N. C., contractor was found yesterday in a thicket near Conowingo.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Walter Bennington of Harford County, his wife, and State Patrolman Leander H. Thomas left for Portland, Me., to bring back three teen-age youngsters charged in warrants with the slaying.

The three, Herbert H. Cox, Jr., 16; Ida May Price, 15, and Leona Ellen Cunningham, 14, will stand trial in Harford county, sheriff Bennington said. He said he expected to return Sunday night or Monday.

Blames U. S. for Attacks
"These incidents involving the Greer and the Kearney are incidents very largely of our own making and our own inviting. We can not order our ships to shoot to destroy the vessels of certain belligerent nations and hope at the same time that the ships of those nations are not going to seek to destroy our ships."

"I hope the American people are going to deal realistically with these incidents and realize that at least one of them has been provoked. It still is America's duty to stay out of this war. But it will grow increasingly difficult to stay out if we proceed to a course that is bound to invite incidents."

Reporter Finds British Morale Is at Its Best

No Sign of Defeatism, Tom Yarbrough Tells Editors in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Tom Yarbrough, Associated Press reporter fresh from two years of duty amid the bombs and bustle of London, reported today that British morale was good.

"I have never seen a sign of defeatism," he stated at the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

He added that there were some indications of war "weariness" but opined they were the natural result of people going without some of the things they wanted during the war.

Yarbrough, who returned from England this week, said food stocks were increasing, and none was going hungry, but there was a shortage of some goods.

Peaches 75 Cents Each

He related that you could buy a fresh peach for seventy-five cents, if you could find one; that shoe strings and combs required a bit of shopping; that you bought any brand of cigarettes you could get; that you stood in line to buy tickets to a movie at prices ranging from 60 cents to $2.

Yarbrough, who once was blown down a flight of steps when he sought shelter from a bomb in a doorway, reported that most people in London went on with their work during raids.

Basil L. Walters of the Minneapolis Star-Journal and Tribune was elected chairman of the association for the ensuing year. He succeeds Neil Swanson of the Baltimore Evening Sun. George W. Healy, Jr., of the New Orleans Times-Picayune was chosen vice chairman. Los Angeles was selected for the 1942 meeting but no dates were set.

Greens Tender Held In Smiley Murders

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 17 (AP)—Raymond S. (Skeeter) Baxter, 27-year-old golf club greens tender, was arrested on a murder charge today as a third suspect in the robbery-slaying of golf star Marion Miley and her mother and police reported the finding of two guns used to kill them.

Adding impetus to the three-week-old investigation of the crime, the Fayette grand jury indicted Thomas C. Penney, 32, former Lexington carpenter, and Robert H. Anderson, 36, Louisville night club owner, for murder and Circuit Judge Chester D. Adams set Anderson's trial for Oct. 27.

Baxter was implicated in the crime, Police Chief Austin B. Price said, by Penney, who admitted his own participation in the double slaying at the swank Lexington Country Club Sept. 28 following his arrest last week at Fort Worth, Tex.

Previously tight-lipped on reports that an "inside man" helped the slayers enter the clubhouse for the robbery, the police chief declined to elaborate on Baxter's part in the case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Frank B. Burch, 67, Akron, O., attorney and one-time member of the Ohio state senate who pleaded guilty to failing to register as a German agent, was fined $1,000 in federal district court today.

A jail sentence of eight to twenty-four months was suspended by Justice James W. Morris.

Burch was indicted on a charge of failing to register with the state department as a foreign agent. The indictment accused him of acting under the direction of Karl Kopp, German consul at Cleveland, O., and distributing literature throughout the country.

Roosevelt Orders

making greater expenditures than ever have been made before in the history of the republic, did not come up proportionately to the effort being made by Great Britain and by Germany in relation to their resources.

Would Double Expenditures
Federal expenditures are estimated for the current fiscal year at about $24,500,000,000, and are expected to use up about eighteen per cent of the national income. The new "victory program," if adopted, would double these expenditures.

Another problem that the experts have yet to figure on before recommending such a program is the question of where the money would come from. This fiscal year, even with the new record breaking taxes recently enacted, revenues are estimated at $12,000,000,000. This total might rise to $15,000,000,000 during a period of increased business activity, but huge additional taxes or borrowing would have to be inaugurated to pay for a $50,000,000,000-a-year spending program.

City Cuts Back Curbs At Railroad Crossings

Curbs are being cut back and part of the railing removed on Henderson avenue at Bedford and Frederick streets to give automobiles and trucks more space in approaching the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossings at those points.

The curb near the watch box at Baltimore street crossing also was removed as a safety measure. Herebefore, operators of numerous trucks and cars approaching the crossing at that point failed to observe the curb and sidewalk.

The work of improving all three crossings is being done by the city street department.

An Abbreviation That Should Go

THIS NEWSPAPER has for several years deprecated the slovenly practice of utilizing the abbreviation "Xmas" for Christmas, believing that it detracts from the joyous and sacred nature of that great commemorative event and serves no needful purpose, not even in the infinitesimal saving of space and time in it might effect in these hectic days of swift-moving progress.

Wherefore, it is good to note that a campaign has been launched to prevent this unseemly usage by the Orangeburg, S. C. Chamber of Commerce, and that it is gaining support therein from trade bodies over the country.

Furthering the movement, Opie L. Shelton, the executive secretary of the Orangeburg chamber, has sent a copy of a letter to this newspaper, as well as to the local chamber of commerce, in which support of the movement is asked.

"Two weeks ago," the letter states, "this organization inaugurated a campaign among other commercial organizations of the nation to encourage the elimination of the common practice of abbreviating Christmas with a highly improper 'Xmas.'"

"The general wave of approval which has flooded the office from twenty-eight states (to date) indicates the realization of the true meaning of Christmas."

"Pledging their assistance, these organizations have urged that we continue our efforts until success has been achieved. Isn't it natural that we should call on you, who do so much to help formulate public opinion, for your help?"

"If by doing so I am not violating any code of ethics of our free press, may I sincerely urge that you give editorial consideration to this campaign?"

"There is but one reason for our observance of Christmas, and when we substitute the unknown quantity (X), we lose that reason. We need now more than ever before to realize the true import of Christmas."

We do, indeed. The Cumberland News hopes the worthy movement thus so well undertaken by the Orangeburg chamber will meet with success, for the reasons stated.

War Campaign Climax In the Sky Likely

HITLER'S GIGANTIC AND COSTLY DRIVE on Moscow has progressed to the point that support is given to Premier Churchill's surmise that the fuehrer will soon be halted in Russia by bad weather and will occupy the winter by turning to challenge Britain anew, probably at Gibraltar, in the Mediterranean and at Suez. This is true whether Hitler takes Moscow or is stopped before he captures that prize.

Weather will be less of an obstacle in a drive on the Caucasus in the south. But he has a long way to go to Tiflis and Baku even in mild weather, and a campaign on the Caspian sea and the Caucasus can be beset with such difficulties and delays as to strip away the vast vestige of the blitzkrieg with which Hitler broke into Russia.

From the first Hitler has been dependent upon drama to forward his fortunes. It is not in the cards for him to have his help in the long, tedious drag to the Caucasus. The best opportunity that would seem to present itself in that line is to begin battering at Britain's hold on the Mediterranean.

Lacking naval strength himself and counting the Italian fleet as inept, Hitler can be expected to put everything he has in the air to pound both ends of the Mediterranean and the waters in between. The prospect is that the RAF, now reinforced with an uninterrupted flow of new powerful American planes, will prove effective against the decreasing Nazi air fleets.

Unless all signs fail, the climax of the winter campaign will come in the sky through a gigantic grapple of armored planes exceeding in intensity all previous aerial warfare.

Success in College Is Also a Big Order

SUBJECT of much comment and study has been the fact that 100,000 college freshmen fail to make the grade each year.

Prof. Samuel L. Hamilton, of New York University, who has published a pamphlet entitled, "What It Takes to Make Good in College," asserts that college "success," as distinguished from the mere getting of grades, is dependent on four characteristics—purpose, social adjustment, ability to make decisions and sensitivity.

Success seems to be the outcome of many conditions beyond the control either of the boy or the college. Professor Hamilton asserts that if the student has the intelligence necessary to understand his studies and the health and vigor needed for hard work, all the other traits which he needs for successful transition from high school to college may be acquired. When the student already possesses these traits, it has been shown that they were produced by previous experiences in home, school, playground, camp, church, part-time job or vacation work.

Parents and perhaps students, too, will be interested in some of the "tips" to success shown in the study. Professor Hamilton's conclusion is that the student has a better chance to make good if he safeguards his health, participates in athletics, even if he never makes a varsity team; has occasional "dates," finds a person whom he can trust with "confidence," keeps up a satisfactory religious worship, retains fellowship with his parents and old friends, lives on the campus. Also studies as many hours daily as are required to finish assignments, learns how to make and keep a schedule of work, reading, recreation, exercise and rest, makes his own decisions promptly, seeks competent advice without becoming over-dependent on it, keeps track of his money, enlarges his reading interests, particularly in books; learns to appreciate English literature for its light on the real life of man, takes part in occasional big "bull" sessions, rides a hobby without letting it ride him, and concerns himself with the large community outside the campus.

There are many successful men in the world who will say that they did not follow all of these rules, particularly some of those which require much discipline. But the study is of value to parents and students, particularly the latter. It must impress them with the fact that life is a big order and that success even in college cannot be attained easily.

The Dunkers Gain Important Support

A GREAT MORAL VICTORY has been won by the dunkers. Hereafter their social position will be secure. Paul V. McNutt, social security administrator, has accepted honorary membership in the National Dunking Association.

The McNutt letter of acceptance wanders afield a trifle in its recognition of the fact that some persons speak of a doughnut as a cruller, and vice versa. This is extraneous, as the type of food to be dunked is not at issue. What the American people have wanted to know for many years is whether they violate the code of etiquette and ethics when they yield to the temptation to dunk.

The highest authority describes dunking as the act of dipping any type of food into milk, tea, coffee or other liquid. Few persons need to be instructed how to dunk. Their only worry has been whether they should adopt the custom.

When Paul V. McNutt lends his personal support and the weight of his official position to the practice, its devotees have reason to rejoice. In gratitude, the least they can do for the forthright Hoosier is to give him, instead of an expensive cocktail party, a coffee and doughnut party well in advance of the 1944 Democratic national convention.

A Splendid Instrument

WE HEAR a good deal of this and that method of public action. Some of them are necessarily functional. Others are secretive, bureaucratic, arbitrary. Still others are out in the open, above board, bathed in the light of wholesome publicity and subjected to the scrutiny of debate.

The American form of government is necessarily representative, a fact many seem to forget when demanding this or that change in method. Too many think of it as a democratic instead of a republican form. But it remains representative regardless of method.

There is one thing, however, that has proved its worth beyond all quibbling. That is the piercing, sifting, analytical power of calm, deliberative, open discussion, whether in legislative halls, in judicial forum, on convention floor or in the press.

No harm ever came from that; much good has.

It is estimated that it takes women longer than it does men to see the point of a joke. These statistics do not take into consideration that perhaps the dear things didn't consider it worth listening to.

The melancholy days are here when many of us can't make up our minds whether to blow the works on a big Thanksgiving dinner or save a little something for the Christmas fund.

Pancake flour and glue are among the newer products now made from soybeans. This ought to give the cook an excellent excuse if one should happen to taste like the other.

California is cutting expenditures, which should arouse national curiosity as to what has become of ham-and-eggs?

A Few Words about Music

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Please, may I say a few kind words about the radio, which sometimes pleases, sometimes annoys, sometimes bores? . . . Like nearly everything else worth while in life.

Marshall Maslin

A few words, in particular, about music—about which I know almost nothing. Our family lived for the first eleven years of my life in a middle-sized city. Then we lived for seven years in a small town. It was fun living in that town and in some ways I still think that life is the best for growing children. . . . But sometimes when I turn on the radio and hear fine music coming freely into our home I realize how much, unknowing, we missed in the days when there was no radio. To be sure, there were primitive phonographs, with disk or cylinder records and big "morning glory" horns. But the music was faint and scratchy and gave us inadequate reproduction. . . . An occasional concert singer or violinist came to our town; sometimes there was a fiddler in a traveling vaudeville act; a pianist in the motion picture house thumped out accompaniments to the pictures; music teachers and their pupils gave "recitals"; none of the boys I knew took piano lessons; we had a club at high school and sang "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean." "Heart Bowed Down" and "Jingle Bells," but it was hardly gleeful; on Saturday nights our band played in the plaza and we walked round and round until 9 o'clock, listening to it; and of course there was organ music and singing in church.

But no radio. . . . No voices ringing in our ears. No fine violinists pierced me through and through. No full orchestra recreating the art of the immortal composers. I missed all that and the pity of it is that I did not know I missed it; and sometimes it seems to me more pathetic not to know and not to have than to long in vain for what you want. It's different now, and any child may have—and keep or toss aside—what was not ours. . . . And for this opportunity to receive or to reject I thank with all my heart the radio. . . . It is a gift and must put it in.

Belated Cracking Down Is Foolish, Gen. Johnson Says

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—"A fox" said Mr. Aesop, if I remember my children, "lost his tail in a trap, but escaped. All the other foxes gathered round to feel sorry for him. He would have none of it. He told them how useless and what a burden a tail is and how much better he felt and better and faster he was.

lost. From this he went on to urge that the whole fox family get rid of their tails. But they were foxes and they just laughed and went away proudly waving their tails behind them."

I remember too some old nursery nonsense:

"Let's cut off our noses said Aaron to Moses. It's the fashion to wear 'em said Moses to Aaron."

Most official American visitors to England recently come back and say that England has practically abandoned automobile production—except a few for export—and, therefore, so should we, that England is spending more of her income for defense than we, taxing herself more heavily and has converted more of her factories to war production and that we should therefore equal her pace.

No Good Yardstick

Of course none of those things is any reasonable yard-stick at all for our effort. Our goal and measure is "What is needed? What have we got? How can we get more without utterly disrupting our economic system and destroying civilian morale?"

None of these people approach this problem from that angle. After all these months they are only now "starting, to begin to commence" to find the answers. But "what is England doing?" is a substitute for the unthinking.

I doubt if they know what England is doing. It is becoming clearer every day that they didn't correctly compare our total tax burden with hers. Spokesmen for England have several times said that she didn't intend to sacrifice her little fellow in business. Letter in my mail indicates that she isn't doing it—and in that she is wise.

Is Entirely Different

England's automotive problem is entirely different from ours. She is a smaller country with shorter distances and her people have never been as completely motorized as ours. Automobiles have redistributed our population and revolutionized our whole territorial system of distribution of supplies and location of homes with relation to working places.

This long delay in finding facts and laying plans followed by this sudden "hoop-la" of universal cracking down by the boys who should have been finding the facts and laying the plans may be the easy way out for them but it certainly casts doubt on the advisability of placing in their hands the power of economic life or death over so many communities, industries and labor and other groups.

Dallied Too Long

It isn't as if there had been no model for a reasonable and timely approach to the problem. There were many—our own in the World War—copied with greater or less faithfulness by all the war-powers of Europe. But these gentlemen would have none of it—until just now when they want to take a broad-axe instead of scalpel and hack out in a few weeks what requires years to do decently and well. Of course, we must speed up and sacrifice. This column has been preaching that for years. Of course, as these Johnnie-come-lately gentlemen are so late in saying we've got to take the fat off. But if we don't

CLOSES HIS BANK

John M. Nichols

Having gained the consent of the stockholders, John M. (100 per cent) Nichols, above, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, Ill., will pay off all depositors, liquidate the bank's assets and close it. A liquidating dividend of $525 a share will be paid stockholders. "I do not care to continue as custodian of other people's money," Nichols says, in commenting on the times. Nichols, a foe of New Deal banking policies, gained the nickname "100 per cent" because his bank remained 100 per cent liquid throughout the depression.

THE PREACHER'S SERMON AND THE PREACHER'S SONS

Actual State of War Is Foreseen if Combat Zone Restriction Is Repealed

By MARK SULLIVAN

We are about to arm our merchant vessels. The bill at this writing is before the House and is expected to pass; it is expected to pass the Senate later, by a substantial majority. We can safely look upon the step as taken.

Considering the step as taken, what change does it make in our war?

At what new status do we now arrive? How far does this step take us on the road toward war?

The step, standing alone, means little. Judged by any standard, arming our merchant vessels is not much.

It is not much as a departure from the neutrality law. In that law we merely forbade ourselves to arm our own merchant vessels. That was wholly an exercise of our own domestic judgment. It was not called for by our relations to other countries. It was not called for by neutrality in the international sense as understood by international law and custom. Forbidding ourselves to arm our own merchant vessels was, actually, a retreat toward mere neutrality, a retreat toward extreme isolation. If now we choose to repeal the prohibition we put upon ourselves, we have a right to do so. After doing so we will still be within neutrality in the international sense.

That order did not glid the lily. It put the people on notice that war is destructive, that it does not promote better living and that those who shrink will be promptly punished. In far too many instances, efforts are made to make war look nice. Instead, it is dirty business all around. War means that our gang is out to wipe up the other gang; and that neither crowd will be particular as to methods—once the going gets hard.

Everybody will now be mobilized, including all boys big enough to carry a spear. Married men will bring their wives to cook and carry supplies. Those without wives will take along any women who have no husbands. Women with small children, small boys who cannot carry a spear, the blind and the maimed who cannot carry a spear for any reason, may stay at home. Anyone else found at home after receipt of these orders will be hanged."

Attack No More Likely

It is not much as a step toward war. No nation has any right to resent it. Germany is no more likely to attack a merchant vessel armed than to attack one unarmed. The latter she has already done. It is just because Germany has done this that we now decide to arm our vessels. (True, if we were formally at war, arming our merchant vessels would make a real distinction. A merchant vessel armed would be part of our navy. But we are not formally at war.)

It is not much as a help to Britain. By another provision of our neutrality law, still standing, we still forbid American merchant vessels to go to Britain, or into any waters near the area of war. Our armed merchant vessels will not go anywhere that our unarmed ones did not.

It is not much as a protection to our merchant vessels. A dozen or so men from our navy, with a few guns, on a merchant vessel otherwise unarmed and without armor plate, is no great opposition to a submarine.

Seen as War

If then the present step is not much, why the opposition to it? The opponents are sound enough—if we grant the premise they stand upon. The opponents say this is one more of a series of steps which, however long or short each separate step may be, carries us away from our original neutrality position, carries us in the direction of war. The minority of the House Foreign Relations committee, in opposing the present measure, say that what is going on is a "piece-meal emasculating" of the Neutrality law.

This is true. We have taken step after step away from the neutrality law. Passage of the Lease-Lend act last March was in effect a nullifying of a large part of the law. Putting American merchant vessels under the Panama flag was a subterfuge to evade another part of the law. But the real question here is: was the original neutrality law wise? Even if it were wise when it was passed, two years ago, does it remain wise under present conditions? Do the American people, in their present mood, now wish to oppose Germany and help Britain in ways that the original Neutrality law made illegal? These are questions upon which men are free to divide, according to their conscience and judgment. By many and plain evidences, including votes in Congress, a majority of our people seem to wish to do what is being done.

The minority of the House Committee, in their formal opposition to the present step, say that "as surely as night follows day, an overwhelming vote for arming merchant vessels would be followed by a proposal striking out the remainder of our neutrality or peace laws."

Would Be War Act

This assertion, while it looks to the future, is probably correct. The remaining section of the Neutrality law which they have in mind is that which forbids American merchant vessels to go to the ports of Britain, or into the waters near the combat areas. This section, President Roosevelt would like to see repealed—he said so in his recent message to Congress. And it is common judgment that if the proposal for arming merchant vessels gets a large majority in Congress, the president will be encouraged to ask for early repeal of the provision against merchant vessels going into British ports or waters.

This step, if ever taken, could not be described as "not much." It would carry us far toward an actual state of war. If this section of the Neutrality law were repealed, presumably President Roosevelt would make use of the freedom granted by the repeal. Presumably he would then use American merchant vessels to carry lease-lend goods, materials of war, into British ports and into the other areas of fighting. Mr. Roosevelt has said that he wants to "carry out the true intent of the Lease-Lend act by making it possible for the United States to help to deliver the articles . . ."

This, in practice, would amount to an act of war—undoubtedly Germany would so regard it.

Balance Should Be Maintained

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

Intemperance of attitude quite as much as intemperance of utterance is one of the greatest dangers we Americans have to avoid in the next few months.

When issues become sharply joined, men tend to see only their side of the case and are blind to any possible points which the other side may have.

This sort of 100 per cent partisanship is the normal thing in our utterances. When two sides are engaged in a debate, each is expected to present only the arguments on its side without attempting to give the arguments of the opposition.

But when we come to our individual attitudes, which find final form in our convictions, we are not in the position of debaters. We are rather the judges, and we must weigh both sides. Even after we have reached an honest conviction that one side preponderates and have cast our individual verdict in favor of that side, we must not forget "and we must not be unwilling to concede the points which candor compels us to recognize in the arguments of the other side."

All this may sound highly generalized, but as we see our public men becoming more and more positive in the rightness of their positions and even more positive in the complete error of their opponents, we do not apologize for suggesting the simple rule of seeing our problems right and seeing them whole.

Defeat for Japan In War Certain, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—It may have been significant that the Japanese selected the eve of a two day holiday—during which time their newspapers were not being published—to bristle again at the United States.

Apparently they wanted their bristling noticed more outside their country than inside.

The fluctuating wrath of Tokyo caused considerably less than the expected reaction here. Over-committed in China, torn with political dissension within, threatened with economic starvation, Tokyo would have to exhibit a lot of wrath to frighten anyone.

Hitler Prodding

Hitler has been slipping in all the pressure possible the last few days upon the Japanese government, urging a move—not further to the south where the Japs have been longingly gazing—but against Vladivostok where it would do him the most good.

Before the bristling started, the Japanese government did go as far as to move a considerable force up to its northern frontier nearest the Red sea port. The Russians have kept half a million men around there to defend their only Pacific outlet to the United States and Britain. The Japs have been able to accumulate about the same number in that area—at the expense of withdrawals from China.

Seizure of Vladivostok would disrupt the main American government connection with the Russians and create a problem for the American Navy in those waters.

The only natural interest the Japs could possibly have in capturing the Vladivostok area, however, is to protect themselves from the possibility of bombing raids. This interest could hardly be sufficient to warrant such a military effort. The protection gained is clearly not worth the hazard of coming face to face with a vital American interest.

Of course if they were positive Stalin had collapsed (they would not dare anticipate the event) much in view of the mess in which Mussolini mired himself by too quickly anticipating the fall of Britain and France and joining the Axis sincerely. They might reasonably try to cut themselves in on the new diplomatic game of acquiring any unprotected or indefensible territory lying around loose.

Victory Chance Nil

There are naval authorities here who fear war with Japan would result in a long struggle, but their opinion hardly fits the facts. They argue that Japan is well protected by a far-flung string of fortified islands. Her mainland is remote from any American attacking point. They see her only susceptible to severe destructive bombing from Alaska and a sea blockade.

A more impressive point is the fact that she is already blockaded, her economic life is seriously waning. She is far beyond help from Hitler. She would not have a chance of victory in the long or short run.

Factor Overlooked

Overlooked (but certainly not in Tokyo) is the offensive which has been started by the Chinese. The first hit-back blow they have been able to muster since their government retreated to Chungking.

Originally the Japs tried twice to capture the populous city of Chinghsia, finally succeeding on the third attempt. Their radio immediately announced then that all China had fallen.

The Chinese have been creeping back around the city the past few weeks. They succeeded in the end in cutting off communications of the Jap forces there.

Nothing of this was published in the Tokyo press, of course, but a fatuous official announcement that the city was no longer of consequence and that the Jap forces had gladly given it up. They were lucky to have escaped.

Another smaller town to the south, Ichang, had long been held by the Japs. The Chinese claim now to have captured it.

If Japan wants war with anyone, in view of these circumstances she can no doubt get it.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

CHANGE THE WHOLE PLAN
SOMETIMES after a business deal by an opponent, indicating other trump length in his hand or possession of certain high cards, a savvy declarer will make his contract by playing the deal entirely different from what otherwise would have been his course. Some of the prettiest plays in the game are built that way, including end-throwing, end-plays, grand slams and squeezes, which never would have been thought of otherwise.

The declarer who was doubled decided on seeing the dummy that East had the very trump holding he possessed, so planned differently. After West took two diamonds and shifted to the heart 2 to the Q and A, he, too, laid down the club Q, but did not lead trumps. He ruffed the diamond 10 in the dummy, due to his having counted East's hand on the basis of probability.

Because of East's club bid, he counted him for four of that suit. Because of his double, he counted him for four spades. Because of West's failure to bid diamonds instead of clubs, he counted East for at least three diamonds. Because of West's failure to bid hearts instead of clubs, he reckoned him as not having five, and hence counted East for two. So after ruffing the diamond 10 in dummy, he discarded hearts on two club tops, then led a third club for a ruff to eliminate the suit from both his side and East. The heart K was scored, and he led the diamond Q, ruffing it with the 3 and forcing East, now down to trumps, to over-ruff with the 7. East was stuck. He led back his spade Q, taken by dummy's K, then had a sure finesse with the spade A-10 sitting over the J-9 for the last two tricks.

Your Week-End Lesson

Do you understand the old 4, 3, 2, 1 count favored by Milton Q. Work as a means of deciding how many tricks you should be able to take at no trump? Can you give several examples indicating the way that one amount of strength opposite another amount of strength operates?

Good Citizenship Can Be Learned Outside School

Children Often Do Not Carry Training from Classrooms

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

It is safe to say that training in good citizenship at school was never so well done as today. Yet we cannot feel so proud of the citizenship of school children while outside of school.

The students in the modern high school are so well organized they can not easily get far out of step without being caught and made to feel sorry for non-conformity. But as soon as one leaves the school premises he is not so disciplined by his fellows. Indeed, he may feel entirely free to violate the right of anybody outside of school. Of course, he probably has 100 opportunities to do wrong outside of school to one in school and to do so without being caught and made sorry for the deed.

Citizenship at school does not transfer, as he might expect, outside of school. Indeed, some of the very best citizens at school are the worst citizens outside of school. Even the school premises may fall victim, at night or during vacation, to the vandalism of children who during the day or term were good school citizens.

Rights Respected

In the primary grades many teachers are so skillful in directing the children that the rights of one another in this classroom are respected to a very high degree. But here again, this good citizenship at school does not carry over to the home and community as we reasonably might expect.

Even at school, it is possible for children to be good citizens in the classroom and poor citizens elsewhere in the same school building. Recently, I heard an expert teacher from a primary classroom teacher from a primary classroom and respecting the rights of others there.

After describing what seemed to me ideal classroom experiences for training in democracy, this expert teacher said it was discovered that the median reigned in the cafeteria, presumably among the children who were ideal citizens in their respective classrooms.

Questions Asked

I asked her why the good citizenship of the classroom did not transfer to the cafeteria. If it could not go from the classroom to the cafeteria in the same building, how might we expect it to transfer to the streets and highways leading to these children's homes, to the lawns, buildings and stores in the home community, and to the homes themselves?

Then I asked her, if in her classroom they talked about conduct in the cafeteria and outside the school, "No," was her reply. "We have enough to do to get good citizenship right in class; anyway, I have no faith in words about conduct beyond the classroom."

Here we have the prevailing theory that you can't teach ideals and character with words but only through the immediate situation. If this theory be sound, churches and Sunday schools might as well fold up.

It seems to me that the teacher who gets best citizenship in the classroom is the very one who should be suited best to lead her children to wait to apply these principles and patterns of good citizenship outside the classroom.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Of what value is a teething ring?

A. It helps the teething process. Hard rubber or ivory ones are good. Soft objects which encourage sucking are harmful rather than helpful. A good idea also is to let the baby chew on the baked crust of dark bread, hard crackers or a cooked chicken bone with no meat on it or loose parts.

Pacific islands offer few potential bases for protection of the Panama Canal from the west such as the West Indies do from the east.

A Ride in a Paper Boat

By MARIE BLIZARD
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO

IT TOOK three hours to get Hallie ready for her visit to the Towers Agency, three delicious hours in the hands of Sue Amberson, who had no conscience at all about Hallie's wearing the borrowed clothes from a famous Fifth avenue shop.

"I know all the ropes of this business," she said, leading Hallie to an expensive beauty salon, and, after that, to a theatrical photographer. "You'll have to show photographs at the agency and leave several of them around. I'll take you if you haven't the cash."

"I'll never be able to pay you back," Hallie moaned when she saw the bill the beauty expert handed her. Not but what it was worth; it was a shining tawny mass, heaped skillfully on the crown of her head. Her makeup, applied by an expert, showed the wide beauty of her face, her generous mouth, and her deep-set eyes. She had demurred at false eyelashes with good reason—the mascara brush had brought out the shadow that deepened the tone of her eyes to gray.

"You'll be able to pay it back. The models I know make as high as $50 a day to have their hair and make-up done, and get even more when they're in demand. You won't be able to buy the town car you were yearning for a moment ago, but you'll have a lot more than you have now."

When Hallie saw the array of beauty in the waiting room of the famous agency, which supplied commercial photographers, fashion shows and artists with models, she made a despairing gesture. She had never seen so many exquisitely beautiful girls gathered in one place before. Redheads, blondes and brunettes, all were lithe loveliness in the flesh. All were dressed expensively, all perfectly groomed.

Sue whispered, "They haven't got anything on you."

"Except that I won't have clothes like that after today," Hallie whispered back.

"Keep your fingers crossed. And when they ask you if you have a complete wardrobe, say 'Yes.' Chances are, you won't have to use your own clothes until you get enough money to buy them."

A secretary stepped up to the rail, looked Hallie over with the air of a connoisseur of beauty and said, "Do you have photographs?"

Sue said, "Amigo will send them over in the morning."

The secretary asked a few questions. Hallie gave her name and address and telephone number. The other girl gave her another encompassing, calculating glance from head to toe and said, "We'll have the pictures in the morning? Good! You'll be on call at this telephone?"

Hallie nodded dumbly.

"We'll let you know."

The interview was over.

"What happens next?" Hallie asked Sue, who looked at the watch on her wrist.

"Now we drop in to see Pete Falks while you're still got those photographs of the fashion mags and is a special friend of mine. It won't do any harm to let him know you're in the ranks now."

Pete Falks was working on one of the sets in his big studio when Sue said, "Hello . . . mind if I go right in?" to the receptionist, who replied, uninterestedly that she didn't care.

Falks shouted, "Hello, sweet-heart! Wait for me in my office, will you? Help yourself to a drink." His office was a huge untidy room with a handsome bar at one end. The walls were covered with photographs of gorgeous girls, affectionately autographed. Falks came in a few minutes later, gave Hallie a quick glance as she passed, and said, "What'll it be, girls? Martini or old-fashioned?"

"Pete, this isn't a party call," Sue said to the big blond man. "It's business. I want you to meet Hallie Singleton. She's a friend of mine who is going to do some modeling. She's done a lot of work for me. I thought you might be able to use her."

Pete sat down and took one of Hallie's hands in his big paw. "Got a date tonight, darling?" he said. Hallie liked him in spite of his familiarity.

Sue answered for her: "She has a date with three leading columnists. It's work she wants. You'll have to wait in line for your date."

"Anyways, I'm married," Hallie said with a twinkle in her eye. Falks sighed deeply. "I'll wait a year," he said sadly. "Let me see your hands."

Hallie was ashamed to show him her hands. Housework had roughened them, but it had not destroyed the beauty of their tapering fingers, the strength in the mold of them.

He said, "Be here at nine in the morning. I've got some jewelry stuff to do. Ten bucks an hour. Okay?"

Hallie gulped. "Will it take an hour?"

"Dunno. You'd better plan to be here until one. Depends on how long it takes to get stuff out of the way before that. We'll be working all night."

Thirty dollars for a morning's work! Visions of untold wealth floated before Hallie's eyes. "To think that all this money has been lying around waiting for me to pick it up!" she exclaimed to Sue.

"You think it's an easy life?" Sue asked. "Just wait until you're in it. You'll be such a precious piece of property that you'll find you spend all your time protecting it. You'll diet like a fanatic when you discover an extra pound. No more cream and butter or the kind of lunches you can afford. No late hours until you can sleep all morning. And no guaranteed income. You make ten dollars one week and two hundred the next. And when you get to where you're making two hundred, your days are numbered. Because, then, your face will be photographed so often, the public will be tired of you."

"Is that all?" Hallie asked happily.

"That's just the beginning. You'll have to get clothes, and keep on getting new ones. You'll have to be the last word in fashion. The public expects it of you. You'll go to the hair dresser and have your hair washed and set twice a week and make some arrangements with him to have it combed at his shop every day. The girls usually pick a shop near Towers, where they can drop in between engagements. You'll have to learn to make up like an actress, bringing out the good photogenic features."

"Sounds exciting."

"And you'll learn that it is good economy to ride in taxis. Running after buses and subway trains won't keep you looking like the Miss America the camera demands. You'll work until you feel like dropping. You'll hold the most god-awful position until you think your limbs will fall off if you ever get a chance to move them again."

"No complaints," Hallie answered dreamily. "To be working! To have something to do besides play bridge and live through dull days!"

"And there's another angle," Sue said. "The birds of prey."

"Birds of prey? What . . ."

"Not always as nice as Pete Falks, who is a lamb in wolf's clothing. The boys who hire you, the bears who scent honey, most of which you have to be nice to."

It sounded like an old-fashioned tale about the poor working girl, Sue went on:

"They're easy to handle. They call you 'sweetheart' and you call them 'darling.' You're terribly sorry you have a date when they ask you on yachting trips and the like, but you can accept invitations to a cocktail—one—and lunch, and make them take you smart places where you'll be seen. That's good business."

"It's funny business for a girl who plans to save her money so that she can have a baby," Hallie told her.

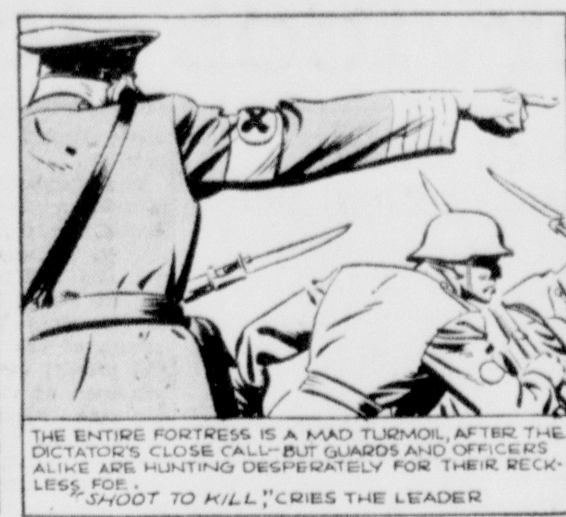

"Don't let the photographers know that," she cautioned. "They won't build you up to relinquish you to a baby."

WHY THAT CLUMSY FOOL! HE KNOCKED THE LITTLE LADY TO THE STREET

BUT I TELL YOU, GENTLEMEN, THERE'S BEEN A MISTAKE. I WAS RUNNING TO CATCH A TRAIN. YOU'LL FIND NO MONEY ON ME!

In just those few wisps of silk which the gentlemen of the old school refer to as "unmentionables," I always wanted to get up a rescue expedition.

Jim spends a good deal of time painting pictures and the results are pretty horrible. He also plays solitaire with a greasy deck of cards from which the four of hearts is missing and is represented by a piece of shingle. I promised to bring him a new deck.

Even a beachcomber has to have a little money and I gathered that Hairy Jim gets it this way: He collects sea shells and on Sundays and holidays, tramps down to where people are fishing or picknicking.

Nobody wants his shells, but Jim puts on such an act and gives them such a hairraising (and totally untrue) account of wrecks along the coast that almost everybody gives him a dime or quarter. He once had some picture postcards of himself printed, but they didn't go as well as the shells. Jim has taken up his beach residence largely to work out a scientific problem. His rough lean-to produces some weird squeaks on a reed whistle which he says represent the cry of the female wombat or some such animal.

Wherein Hairy Jim Reveals Tricks of Beachcomber Trade

By SAM JACKSON

Half Moon Bay, Calif.—When a cat is bashed upon somewhere along California's thousand miles of sea coast, the newspaper accounts are likely as not to mention a "beachcomber." For example: "The wreck reported by a beachcomber."

This has occurred too often to the whim of some romantic reporter. The beachcomber plainly is no longer confined to fiction or to the coral islands of the South Seas. As on our own road map, America seems to have taken him on along with such other tropical intrusions as pineapples, coconuts and hula hula dancers.

Like many a fellow occasionally weary of work and routine, I have secretly been interested in beachcombing as a profession. This stretch of coast seemed a good place to seek out its practitioners.

BLAME YOUR LAZY LIVER BILE IF—

CONSTIPATION with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling may often result when your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely! And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stir up liver bile secretion to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TO-NIGHT! 15c, 30c, 60c. All drugstores.

Three Good Rules For Cooked Apples

For good cooked apple dishes, three rules are suggested by Miss Margaret McPheeters, specialist in nutrition for the University of Maryland Extension Service. Apples used liberally can make a valuable contribution to the diet, Miss McPheeters says, for they contain small amounts of several of the vitamins and minerals. The amounts vary with varieties and the length of time the apples have been stored. Cooks who have a mind to serve apples often, she states, will find this a good year to do it, because the apple trees have done themselves proud and produced a good commercial crop.

To get the most food value from an apple, eat it raw with the peel, says Miss McPheeters. That way, you get its vitamin C intact. The number one rule for cooked apple dishes is to buy the apple that suits your needs. Some apples should never be cooked, the specialist says. And of those good for cooking, some are best for baking, some for pies, and some for general use. Learn about the possibilities of different varieties. If you are not quite certain about the variety you are buying, take home a sample before investing in a large quantity. The second rule is to use little or no water in cooking. The apple itself is more than eighty percent water and much of this cooks out. And, the last rule is to avoid overcooking by watching closely the progress of the apples on the stove or in the oven.

Can-Frozen Fruits

Canned red cherries, frozen in the cans, when unmolded and sliced make a refreshing dessert. For extra dressiness heap sliced peaches on top the cherry slices and add fresh mint.

Leftover Buns

Leftover buns or rolls come out on top when fixed this way: Split the buns, spread with butter and jam or jelly, replace top and toast quickly.

Make the Wedding Cake in Your Own Kitchen

Delicious cake and a decorative green and white setting make this a smart bridal table.

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
AP Feature Service Writer

The wedding cake is one of the romantic traditions connected with the nuptial festivities.

Some brides-to-be want a large cake, formal and heavily decorated with white icing and wedding symbols, fashioned at a caterer's. Others prefer a home made cake. Either is correct.

Home made cakes often have a better flavor and finer texture than those made at a bakery, so when selecting the bakery brand, emphasize taste as well as elegance.

AUNT SALLY'S CAKE, subtle in flavor and fluffy, will keep moist for several days. Here is the recipe: Cream 2-3 cup butter until soft, slowly add 1-2 cups sifted sugar and beat steadily until very creamy. This mixture must be very soft to assure delicate texture. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon each of rose and almond extracts and 1-4 teaspoon salt and almond extract. Alternate 3 cups sifted pastry flour with 3 teaspoons baking powder added with a cup of milk. Beat 2 minutes, or until very creamy. Lightly fold in 4 beaten egg whites and pour into 2 layer cake pans lined with waxed paper.

Bake the cake 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven—about 375 degrees Fahrenheit. If it begins to brown much before 20 minutes, reduce the heat. If you like a tiered cake, double the recipe or make it up twice and bake the batter in 4 pans of graduated sizes. Any creamy, white frosting can be used. Swirls on the top of the cake, made with a spatula dipped in warm water, lightly sprinkled with silver shot give a decorative touch. Unless an expert can fashion frosting flowers, the plainer is better. When the cake is placed upon the serving tray, surround the base with white flowers and delicate greenery.

No bridegroom need feel neglected when this FRUITY SPICY CAKE holds the place of honor on the table next to the white cake especially designed for the bride. Make it like this: cream 1-2 cups butter with 2 cups dark brown sugar, beat well and add 8 beaten yolks, 1-2 cup grapefruit or spiced fruit juice, 1-3 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat 2 minutes. Mix together 4 cups regular flour, 1-2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg, mace and salt, 2 cups seedless raisins, 1 cup each chopped dates, candied pineapple, pecans, figs, 1-3 cup chopped candied lemon peel, 1-4 cup chopped citron and 1 teaspoon soda. Combine with creamed mixture.

Pour the stiff batter into 2 loaf pans lined with heavy waxed paper and bake 2-2 1/2 hours in a slow oven—about 300 degrees. Place a pan of water in the oven while the cake is baking to help keep it from burning. Cool the cake in the pans, then remove, wrap in several thicknesses of waxed paper and store for a month or longer in a stone jar in a cool place.

Several days before serving, sprinkle it generously on all sides with spiced peach or other fruit juice or brandy. Tie up again in waxed paper and store in the jar. This will cause the cake to ripen, giving it extra flavor and moisture.

The cake can be frosted the day before the wedding, with a creamy confectioner's frosting and the top decorated with candied fruits, coconut and nut meats.

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES ARE GOOD

A "just right" accompaniment to winter meals and a valuable addition to the sandwich spread shelf is "bread and butter" pickles—made from either unpeeled, medium sized green cucumbers, or from older ones peeled and with the seeds removed.

To make them, add to one gallon of thinly sliced cucumbers two cups sliced small onions and one-half cup salt. Mix, cover with weighted lid and let stand for three hours, then drain. Next combine four cups sugar, one teaspoon turmeric, four tablespoons white mustard seed, one teaspoon celery seed and about two quarts cider vinegar. Pour over cucumber mixture, stir and place over very low heat and heat only to scalding.

Stir from time to time, but do not boil. Finally, pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

Honey Cake and Cookies Will Stay Moist Long

Honey cakes and cookies remain moist a long time. So try one for your next family treat. Ingredients: Three-fourths cup honey, three-fourths cup shortening, three-fourths cup sugar, four eggs, two cups flour, and one-half teaspoon each of ginger, soda and cinnamon.

Directions: Cream shortening and sugar. Add honey (strained) and well-beaten egg yolks. Sift flour with ginger, cinnamon and soda and add to honey mixture. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites, and add chopped nuts—if desired. Beat five minutes, pour into warm baking tin and bake in moderate oven for one hour. Use plain or with suitable icing.

Soup Suggestion

Bacon crutons perched atop cream of pea or chicken soup make a grand combination. Cut bread into one-half inch cubes and brown in bacon fat. This makes a good luncheon or supper dish.

HERE ARE SOME USEFUL CULINARY SUGGESTIONS

You can clean your dust mops with the vacuum cleaner.

To get that rich brown crust on your pies, mix an egg yolk with a teaspoon of cold water and spread over the pie crust before baking.

Sugar used for meringue should always be sifted.

Pans for cake baking without greasing should be rubbed hard, smooth and shiny with a dry polishing cloth before pouring in the batter.

When peeling vegetables and fruit, let the peels fall into a paper sack and they can be disposed of easily.

If egg whites are hard to beat, add two or three drops of lemon juice.

Sandwich Suggestion For Emergency

If you're in a jam for Sunday night supper or other occasion, try these "emergencies": French-toasted meat sandwiches. Grind some cooked ham or cured pork shoulder and mix with enough butter or other fat to spread easily on bread. Make sandwiches with this meat filling. Beat up one or two eggs with one cup milk, and dip the sandwiches lightly on both sides in the egg mixture. Fry the sandwiches until golden brown. Serve hot. Molded cranberries go mighty well with these sandwiches.

Canape Hint

Celery sticks stuffed with chicken, livers mashed to a paste and thinned slightly with cream, will give an ultra air to the canape table when serving tea or cocktails. Keep the stuffed sticks chilled until needed.

For Tender Crusts

Shortening for pastry should be well chilled before cutting it into the flour. This will help make a more tender crust.

From the Pillsbury bag—

Cranberry-Apple Pie

a delicious surprise!

Here's how to put holiday flavor in America's favorite pie:

1. Sift and measure 2 c. Pillsbury's Best Flour; add 1/4 tsp. baking powder (optional) and 1/2 tsp. salt. (The enrichment of Pillsbury's Best does not change its appearance, flavor, or superb baking qualities, but adds two important vitamins and iron your family needs every day.) 2. Cut in 54 c. shortening until quite fine. Add 1 cup. grated orange rind; mix well. 3. Add 4 to 6 Tbsp. cold orange juice gradually, until dough holds together. Chill. (You'll like this fresh fruit flavor in the pastry; it's different and delicious!) 4. Roll out 1 crust at a time, 1/8 in. thick. Place in 9-in. pie pan. Trim edge. (Notice how easily your dough rolls, how soft it is, how tender, three qualities you must have for crisp, flaky crust—three qualities you get when you use Pillsbury's Best.) 5. (Filling) Combine 4 Tbsp. Pillsbury's Best Flour, 1 c. sugar, dash of salt; add to 3 c. sliced apples and 1 c. halved cranberries. Blend well. 6. Fill pie; dot with 2 Tbsp. butter. 7. Roll out rest of pastry; cut into 1/4-in. strips; put crosswise on pie; flute edge, fastening strips securely. (And don't, for one moment, doubt your results. Open your oven, slide in your pie... know that your job's well done! For Pillsbury's Best is baked-proved for your protection! Each hour during milling, samples of this superb flour are tested to assure a soft, creamy whiteness... a baking quality you can rely on—no matter what you bake. Moreover, actual baking tests are made four to six times daily! 8. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 10 min. Reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) for 25 to 30 min. ... And there's your pie! Piping-hot and golden-brown... full of rich, wheaty fragrance, tender flakiness, and luscious flavor—three savory joys you're sure of when you bake with Pillsbury's Best.

Deanna Durbin Is Suspended by Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17 (AP)—Actress Deanna Durbin has been suspended by the studio which brought her fame and which she in turn rescued from financial distress. Matthew Fox, Universal studio vice president, confirmed the suspension but declined to discuss it. Miss Durbin also remained silent. "Any statement regarding the cause of the suspension might tend to exaggerate an unfortunate situation," Fox said. Joe Pasternak, who has produced all of Miss Durbin's pictures, left Universal upon completion of her last picture and became a producer at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Friends of the singing star said they believed the difficulty involved her demand for more personal supervision of cast, direction and story for her future films. Her salary has risen in little more than a year from $1,750 to around $2,500 a week, plus a $50,000 bonus for each picture.

Frostburg Jaycees Plan To Provide Trash Containers

Will Replace Depositories Ruined Some Years Ago by Vandals

FROSTBURG, Oct. 17 — The Junior Chamber of Commerce at an informal meeting Wednesday evening discussed the possibility of having trash containers provided for various points along Main street as depositories for waste paper and rubbish.

Containers in use here several years ago, were destroyed by vandals and never replaced, the Jaycees were informed.

It was suggested that the funds necessary for the containers might be raised by having interested merchants purchase a container on which his own advertisement would be placed. This plan was one of many suggested, but no definite action was taken.

The proposed collection of waste paper by the Boy Scouts was mentioned to some of the Junior Chamber members as an opportunity of impressing the public with the importance of saving waste paper instead of allowing it to scatter about the streets. If such paper was placed in street containers, it could be salvaged by the Boy Scouts and used in the National Defense effort it was said.

Plan Hallowe'en Parade

Samuel T. McCullough, chairman of the parade committee, who will arrange the mums' parade to be held in connection with Frostburg's annual Hallowe'en celebration Friday evening, October 24, has received about thirty answers from interested bands, drum corps and fire companies accepting invitations to take part in the street pageant, which will include mums, floats, bands, drum corps and a bicycle unit. Christopher Koegel will be chief marshal of the parade.

Following the street parade, scheduled to start at 7 o'clock, there will be dancing on both the second and third floors of Firemen's hall and a street carnival on Water street, between Ormond and Mechanic street, the mayor and city commissioners having granted authority to the committee to rope off this section of the street.

Thomas Rank is general chairman of the celebration and the committee in charge of soliciting prizes for the prizes this year will be numerous.

Blind RAF Pilot Is Offered Aid By R. G. Annan

Former Resident of Mt. Savage Will Pay Expenses for Treatment

MT. SAVAGE, Oct. 17—R. Green Annan, former resident of Mt. Savage, president of the Union Mining Company, has offered to pay the expenses of surgical treatment which may result in restoring the sight of Vernon Willard, Royal Air Force pilot, who became blind when he was shot down for the fourth time while in combat. According to a story in the Baltimore News Post, Willard, who was formerly from Niles, Mich., returned to this country hoping to consult an eye specialist, but, on his arrival, learned that the doctor had been dead for several weeks. The ex-pilot gave a Muskegon, Mich., forwarding address and dropped from sight. A few weeks ago postal authorities, unable to locate him, opened a letter to the blind soldier and the letter contained Mr. Annan's offer.

Annan, who was blinded in a hunting accident fifteen years ago, had his sight restored by surgeons in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, now grateful for his own recovery, he stated that he wanted to pay for similar treatment for Willard who was reported to be in Benton Harbor, Mich., a month ago.

County Student Group Will Meet October 20

Improved Program in Maryland Schools Is Aim of Conference

OAKLAND, Oct. 17—A group of instructors in the public schools of Garrett county will continue their discussion of the problem facing education today, at a meeting of the county study group on Monday afternoon, October 20, in the grand jury room at the court house.

These study groups are in line with the recommendations of the 1941 State school survey, and are composed in the main of high school instructors. The outcome is expected to be an improved program of education for all Maryland schools.

Group Is Named

The group here includes F. D. Bittle, principal, Oakland, chairman; W. J. Glenn, principal, Friendsville, secretary; Raymond McCullough, Friendsville, science; Mrs. Evangeline R. Glenn, Friendsville, music; Frank J. Getty, principal, Grantsville; Mrs. Elizabeth Renninger, Grantsville, home economics; Miss Emma Caulk, Grantsville, languages; B. O. Aiken, principal, Accident.

Arthur Scorsum, Accident, mathematics; Miss Helen Custer, Oakland, English; Marshall Brown, Oakland, social studies; Miss Catherine Baker, Oakland, art; Oren T. Graser, Oakland, agriculture; O. F. Jones, principal, Kitzmiller; Eugene Harpold, Kitzmiller, shop; Ervin S. Smith, Oakland, commercial; Asa Lewis, principal, Kempston; Miss Kate Bannatyne and Mrs. Caroline Wilson, elementary supervisors; Clyde Dahlgren, Oakland, elementary. Two or three others will be added to this committee from the elementary teaching staff, it was stated by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent, who is chairman ex-officio of the group.

J. E. Spitznas Will Attend

James E. Spitznas, high school supervisor for this section of Maryland, plans to be present Monday to make clear the purposes of the program, the kind of preparation each member of the committee will be requested to make and to outline the specific assignments for the ensuing meeting in November.

The committee, and similar groups throughout the state, with its responsibilities, will probably have more to do with directing the educational affairs of the state during the next several years than any other organization, according to Mr. Rathbun.

Through these groups, faculty meetings and general meetings of all high school teachers, the possibilities in the way of additional curriculum materials, and the realization of the various ways in which materials can be selected, organized and presented, will be brought out so that all may get a picture of the high school program of the future.

Program Is Analyzed

Mr. Rathbun said that Maryland has had the experience of having its educational program analyzed from time to time in recent years. The American Youth Commission study in 1936-37 was followed by evaluation of high schools, and the 1941 survey has just been published. One of the recommendations of the survey was that a long-term study program be launched.

"Today, as never before, the problem of what the high schools ought to teach in order that all may learn" is engaging the attention of school people everywhere," Mr. Rathbun declared. "The problems of the machine era, the higher sex for first employment, changing conditions in family and community life, increased opportunities for leisure, awakening consciousness of our past neglect in caring for natural resources, the increasing part played by the government in the life of every individual, and the increased awareness of the prime necessity of adequately preparing pupils for citizenship in a democracy—these are some of the conditions and problems that are of such import to the future of our democracy that the schools, generally regarded as the bulwark of a free people, cannot ignore them.

"Our responsibility as teachers is to teach the young people to live and to be able also to earn a living," he concluded.

LaSalle Explorers Rout St. Mary's, 35-0

Blue and Gold Scores in Every Period of Game

Conway Uses 28 Players--
Hagerstown Eleven Gets
One First Down

LaSalle's Explorers, as had been expected, overpowered a lighter St. Mary's Catholic high football team of Hagerstown 35-0 last night at the Port Hill stadium before a slim crowd estimated at between 300 and 400.

The Blue and Gold scored in every quarter and kept the visitors bottled up at every turn. St. Mary's didn't make a mild threat, getting only one first down and gaining twenty yards by rushing while losing twenty-eight for a net loss of eight yards.

Coach Pat Conway used twenty-eight players in routing the Hub City combination and five different boys went over for touchdowns. The Explorers counted once in the first quarter, again in the second, pushed over two six-pointers and tallied a safety in the third and completed the one-sided contest with another touchdown in the final chapter.

Carter Sparkles

Quarterback Phil Mink, Halfback Jim Laffey and Joe Carter, a reserve, sparked the LaSalle attack. Fullback Pete Wempe and Halfback Tony Cordell were the losers' best bets.

LaSalle's initial touchdown came on an end-around play with Johnny Small taking the ball from Bob Seefeld and going around the left side of the line for twenty-nine yards. Seefeld's dropkick for the extra point failed.

Midway in the second stanza, Laffey ran nine yards to cross the St. Mary's goal but the ball was called back and the Explorers penalized fifteen yards to the Hagerstown team's twenty. A pass from Laffey to Carter and a nine-yard gain by Mink moved the oval to the four and two plays later, Laffey went around right end from one yard out. Mink's placement was good.

LaSalle got a safety on the kickoff which opened the second half. The ball got away from Wempe and when he attempted to pick it up and carry it out of his own end zone, he was smothered.

Fumble Sets Up Score

St. Mary's then kicked off from its twenty and with the help of a clipping penalty and nice runs by Seefeld and Mink, the Explorers advanced to the sixteen. Another end-around play, with Ken Morrissey taking the ball, was good for the rest of the distance, Mink booted the point.

A recovered fumble on the St. Mary's twenty-five set up the fourth touchdown. Laffey passed to Carter for nineteen yards and with the ball resting on the one, Henry Nalate hit right tackle for the score. Mink's kick was wide.

The Blue and Gold marched sixty yards for its final tally with another Laffey to Carter pass producing the touchdown from ten yards out. Laffey kicked the point.

St. Mary's made its only first down in the second period with Wempe totting the oval four consecutive times. LaSalle made seven first downs, completed four of seven passes for forty-eight yards, gained 169 yards by rushing and lost forty on penalties and four on running plays.

St. Mary's connected one of five tosses for seven yards and had one intercepted and was set back thirty-five yards on penalties. The lineups:

Romney Silents Drop 24-14 Game To Front Royal

Outweighed Deaf School Eleven Scores on First Play of Game

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Coach "Chuck" Collette's West Virginia School for the Deaf football team dropped a 24-14 decision to Front Royal (Va.) gridders here this afternoon.

The visitors, trailing 7-6 going into the second quarter, tallied twice before the half and then added another touchdown for good measure in the third chapter.

The Silents, on the first play following the opening kickoff, cut loose for a touchdown. Cook tossed a short pass to Grabbil who ran seventy-six yards for the score. Crigger plunged the point.

Front Royal came back soon after the kickoff with a lateral from Duke to Skyles from the five-yard stripe making it 7-6. The Virginians rolled to a pair of touchdowns in the second round with Skyles going across from the five and two-yard lines.

In the third period, each team counted. Front Royal on Duke's plunge from the four-yard ribbon and the Silents after a pass interference ruling had placed the ball on the nine. On two plays, Grabbil crashed over and then added the point on a pass from Cook.

Front Royal outweighed the locals about eighteen pounds to the man and amassed fifteen first downs to seven, completed four of eight passes with one intercepted and lost twenty yards on penalties.

Grabbil and Russell of the Silents and Skyles and Duke of Front Royal were the outstanding stars while Cook, deaf school end, featured with good kicking and passing. The lineups:

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(The Special News Service)—Ours is a nation of squatters, but if every thing goes according to plan over this week-end, it will have a chance to acquire a figure that isn't just a figure of speech.

The plan is that being evolved by John B. Kelly and his associates, Alice Marble and Mary K. Browne. Kelly is the former sculling champion, who is assistant United States director of civilian defense in charge of physical training, a long title which can be simplified by referring to him as chief of "hale America."

"I don't like to see any other country get ahead of us in physical training," he told a group of sports writers at a luncheon. "We are the wealthiest country, and should be the healthiest. If we have everything, but are weak, somebody is going to come along and take it away from us. We saw that happen in Europe."

Plan in Embryo Stage
Kelly's plan, still more or less in the embryo stage, calls for nationwide physical training. This can't be done by regimentation, as in Germany, Kelly admits, as we are not mentally adapted to regimentation. However, he believes that by making everyone health conscious, the same results may be achieved.

The fact that more than forty-five per cent of the draftees have been found physically unfit can be traced largely to our mode of living, Kelly explains. In this machine age a man drives to work in his car, spends his eight hours sitting down at a machine, drives home again, and then sits more.

We must start now to build the younger generation into physically fit men and women," he says. "We are using Philadelphia as sort of a guinea pig in our experiments. We found, for instance, that when school children were given health examinations and took home slips informing parents of defects, such as bad teeth, tonsils and eyes, only ten per cent of the suggestions for correction were followed through.

Systematized Training
"We want to correct that, and also establish systematized physical training. I said once that it was of little advantage to have a mastermind without a chassis to carry it around, and a newspaper headline read 'Kelly wants them dumber and stronger.'"

Well, that's all right with me. We must have the physical stamina. We are working now on nutrition charts which can be hung up in kitchen to show housewives how to prepare balanced meals.

"Our chief problem is to get the nation interested, to make the citizens say to themselves, this is a patriotic duty and I should do something about it."

Kelly believes every adult should walk at least a mile a day, and take at least a mild form of setting-up exercises.

"As a nation we now are trying to get away from physical effort," he charged. "A store executive told me that if a customer had to step up one or two steps to reach the door, instead of being able to walk right in the store, business fell off."

Parsons May Have To Cancel Games

PARSONS, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Parsons high school may have to cancel remaining games with Piedmont next Friday at Parsons and with Fort Hill at Cumberland, Md., on Saturday, November 1, if any more of the boys on the squad are injured. It was announced today by Coach Fred Butcher.

Of the two score candidates at the start of the season, only about fifteen are in condition to play. Of these, ten are without experience. Wallace Simmons, regular quarterback, recently broke a small bone in his right hip while Dooty Seratin and Bob Hepburn, veteran tacklers, are suffering from sprained knee ligaments.

Moorefield High, Romney Gridders Stage Tie Battle

Outplayed Jackets Keep Goal Uncrossed until Final Minute

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Romney and Moorefield high school eleven, meeting here today for the Potomac Valley Conference leadership, battled to a 6-6 deadlock and as a result, Coach "Tack" Clark's Yellow Jackets remain at the head of the parade.

Romney, a slight pre-game favorite, was lucky to gain a draw. Moorefield's great goal-line play kept the visitors out of scoring territory time and again but in the last minute of play, Romney staged a drive that carried fifty yards and ended in a touchdown.

Romney Threats Halted
At least five times during the first three periods, Moorefield managed to keep its record of not having its goal crossed intact. Late in the final period, Romney took the leather in midfield and drove to the one-foot line. For three downs, the Jacket line failed to yield an inch but on last down, Milleson passed to Heaven in the end zone while failing to make the catch while failing to the ground. A placement for the extra point, which would have won the game, was wide.

Moorefield pushed across its six-point in the second quarter. E. Hahn, Jacket guard, tackled Romney's Milleson, who was attempting to pass, and the ball flew out of his arms. Before the oval touched the ground, Poling, Moorefield tackle, pulled it in and raced sixty yards behind three-man interference for the score. Hott was stopped on a plunge for the extra point.

Hott's Kicking Features
Hott's kicking for Moorefield was a feature of the struggle. He averaged forty-seven yards and on one occasion got off a boot from behind his own goal that went sixty-seven yards in the air.

Romney outplayed the Jackets, ringing up nine first downs to none and gaining 150 yards by rushing to Moorefield's seventy-five. The visitors completed five of fifteen passes for thirty-five yards with one intercepted while Moorefield completed two and the other being intercepted.

Penalties were twenty yards against Romney and fifty against Moorefield. The lineups:

Unbeaten Clubs Have To Prove They Are Tough

Four Headline Battles Top Season's Best Program So Far

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—This is the week-end the tough guys of college football are going to have to prove it.

Up to now these fellows have kept their slates clean through the gridiron campaign's early ups and downs. But by the time the firing ends tomorrow night, there will be fewer of them, and those who get by the shooting will have let the folks know they have a lot more than a smile and a prayer on the ball.

Notable on the list are eight outfits from East, Midwest, South and Southwest who have found things very pleasant up to now. These eight pair off tomorrow into four ball games to top the season's biggest program so far.

These headline brawls are between Michigan and Northwestern in the Midwest, Texas Aggies and Texas Christian in the Southwest, Navy and Cornell in the East and the intersectional waltz featuring Columbia and Georgia in New York.

Army Meets Yale

Among other things, you will find Minnesota and Notre Dame sending the scorers after adding machines to keep track of what they do to Pitt and Carnegie Tech, respectively, the new Army machine meeting up with the threatening Yale's surprise package trying to pull another one out of the hat against Louisiana State; unbeaten Duke and Santa Clara taking on Colgate and Michigan State, respectively, in intercollegiate, the big-name outfits of the Pacific Coast trying to get back on the glory road again; Texas tangle with Arkansas in the secondary feature of the Southwest Conference; Ohio State showing its new stuff to Purdue; and Vanderbilt tossing its all-victorious record at a good Georgia Tech team.

The mighty men of Michigan and Northwestern are two powerhouses slated to give Minnesota more than a mild rattle for the Big Ten crown this year. They meet at Evanston to decide just who has been kidding whom up to now.

Down in the cow country, meantime, the Texas Aggies toss their record of three straight wins at the Texas Christians who boast ditto. The Aggies are a cinch to find the Frogs tougher than New York U. was a week ago.

Big Ten Program
Long before this season started, they were whispering that Navy was three-deep down there at Annapolis. It's a cinch it will take all three to crack Cornell's stiff defense. Lou Little has put together another smart, fast breaking outfit at Columbia, but the Lions run up against a Georgia team that has been itching for a whole year for revenge.

In addition to the Michigan-Northwestern and Ohio State-Purdue tussles, the Big Ten program also finds Iowa, beaten only once, and that time by only one touchdown by Michigan—meeting Harry Stuhldreher's Wisconsin, who have lost their only two outings. Big Six Conference clashes have Iowa State meeting Missouri and Oklahoma taking on Kansas State. Nebraska goes over to the Big Ten for opposition, tangling with Indiana.

On the intersectional front, you have the Notre Dame-Carnegie, Georgia-Columbia, Minnesota-Pitt, Rice-Louisiana State, Duke-Colgate and Michigan-Santa Clara contests along with the North-South encounter between Holy Cross and Mississippi and Southern Methodist's get-together with Auburn.

Southeast Co-Features
Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech and Tennessee-Alabama are the Southeast Conference features, while the Southern Conference presents a four-game card consisting of V.P.I.-Davidson, Wake Forest-North Carolina State, The Citadel-Furman and Richmond-W. & L.

The East will see Penn's invasion of Princeton, Dartmouth's meeting with a Harvard club that has Texas A. and M. and Ohio State. In the same way, Notre Dame, with one of her greatest teams, has her weakest schedule. The Irish must wait until Nov. 8 against Navy to get her first real test. Certainly on form Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, Illinois and Army don't belong on the same reservation. And in this spite of traditional Army fight against killing odds.

What would have happened if Notre Dame or Fordham had drawn Pittsburgh's schedule, which includes Michigan, Minnesota, Duke, Ohio State, Nebraska? The answer is that neither is good enough to handle this consignment of man power.

The current season 'breaks all records of cockeyed schedules that make practically no sense—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Six Touchdowns
There have been only three punts, two kickoffs and one intercepted pass returned for touchdowns in National Football League games this far this season.

Battle of Rival Leagues
The battle of the American League to gain a foothold or a strong finger grip in professional football carries us back a brief matter of forty years.

It all goes back to the day when Ban Johnson decided there was room for two major leagues in baseball—when, with the help of Clark Griffith, Connie Mack and Charles Comiskey, he proved his point, as Messrs. MacPhail, Stoneham and others can testify today.

But the American football league should check back on these few details—

1. In Ban Johnson the American baseball league had one of the big men of baseball at its head—a leader with vision, courage and the capacity for organization. Ban Johnson remains one of the big men of baseball history. With a weaker leader the American league would have come upon stormy days.

2. When the showdown came Ban Johnson had the bank roll of Charlie Somers, the Cleveland millionaire, to help carry the weaker clubs. Somers laid $5,000,000 on the line for any help the strugglers needed.

Also, in reaching for Griffith, Mack and Comiskey it might be suggested that Ban Johnson took over about eighty per cent of baseball's brains from that long ago day.

Also, that the new American League didn't pick one or two stars here and there—for the early list included such ball players as Nap Lajoie, Jack Chesbro, Willie Keeler, Bill Dinnene. These and fifty others among the top-ranking players of their day.

A New Football League

For a new football league to make any real headway the same combination is needed—a smart organizer, plus the needed cash. There is always room enough for anything that is good. And kept competition has never been a bad factor yet.

The National League has been well run and has done a good job of building up. It has had many weak spots that still need bolstering up—but what about the Phillies and a few others in baseball's National League, and the Browns a few others in baseball's American League? There are still too many teams in big league baseball which are riding on the success of such teams as the Yankees and Dodgers.

Of course, no one can expect a pennant race to produce eight clubs in each league battling head and head into the stretch. But when the Yankees can be twenty games in front around Labor Day, there isn't any contest left.

In football the new American League has just as good a chance as the new American League had in baseball forty years ago. But again we've provided it has the brains, the courage and the cash that Ban Johnson's young outfit had. The new league drew a bad start a year or so ago by failing to meet its obligations. This will be forgotten quickly if its present leaders use the right judgment, and are willing to spend the necessary cash.

O. K. for the Player
Two leagues would be cheerful news for all college football players picking the gridiron for a profession. For example, if a certain star were drafted by two clubs for the 1942 season, said star could then wait for the highest bidder.

If the new American League proves it really means business, you will soon find the same agreement that the American and National leagues have in baseball. At least it will be an interesting fight, and certainly a spur for the National League, which needs strengthening in more than one or two spots.

Wrecking Schedules
A few of the football schedules this fall have been completely lopsided. For example, Pittsburgh and N.Y.U. are twenty fathoms over their heads. Neither has a chance against the bulk of the opposition to be offered from now on.

On the other hand, Fordham's fine team has only two tests left—Texas Christian and Purdue. If these two teams are beaten today by Texas A. and M. and Ohio State, Fordham, in a schedule way, will be on the spot.

In the same way Notre Dame, with one of her greatest teams, has her weakest schedule. The Irish must wait until Nov. 8 against Navy to get her first real test. Certainly on form Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, Illinois and Army don't belong on the same reservation. And in this spite of traditional Army fight against killing odds.

What would have happened if Notre Dame or Fordham had drawn Pittsburgh's schedule, which includes Michigan, Minnesota, Duke, Ohio State, Nebraska? The answer is that neither is good enough to handle this consignment of man power.

Parsons Panthers Defeat Franklin By 12 to 6 Score

FRANKLIN, W. Va., Oct. 17.—The Parsons Panther football team invaded the local high school gridiron here today and pounded out a 12 to 6 victory even though they were handicapped by the absence of two players who were nursing injuries on the bench.

Parsons made both touchdowns by the land route with Wratchford and Parsons lugging the leather over the goal after sustained marches up the field. Both points after touchdowns were missed. One touchdown by Parsons in the second was nullified when the ball was fumbled over the goal line.

Pigskin Prophet Bill Boni Picks Today's Winners

Writer Takes Flyer on Michigan To Defeat Northwestern

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Through the first three weeks of the season Michigan, Northwestern, Navy and Texas have taken on the appearance of ranking college football powers. Just how much of this was show and how much was good, solid football substance should be shown tomorrow.

Michigan and Northwestern will meet at Evanston in the day's top-flight attraction, the first of the "round-robin" which also involves Minnesota and Ohio State. The Big Ten's other aces, Navy, after rolling up 115 points to its three rivals' total of two, and those on a safety, should find Cornell's defense considerably tougher, and Texas, a higher scorer against teams from three major outside conferences, will make its Southwest Conference bow against Arkansas.

There is enough dynamite packed into the program to upset any forecast. Trusting we have lighted the fuse at the right end, here are this week's selections (home teams first, probable attendance in parentheses):

NORTHWESTERN-N MICHIGAN (48,000)—Northwestern has kept the statistics-keepers busy in its two starts, but hasn't been up against anything like the Wolverine line. Michigan has its share of backs, too. Northwestern is rated a light favorite, but here goes for a flyer on Michigan in what may be a free-scoring free-for-all.

NAVY-CORNELL (40,000)—The Ithacans have made one touchdown a Saturday serve their purpose. They haven't faced anybody with the Mid-dies' punch. A pretty solid vote for Navy.

TEXAS-ARKANSAS (20,000)—This is a league where most anything can happen, but the Razor-backs seem to be the weak sister. Texas.

PRINCETON-PENN (30,000)—Penn has size and speed as well. Penn.

TENNESSEE-ALABAMA (30,000)—Alabama, but probably close.

NEBRASKA-INDIANA (35,000)—Nebraska.

STANFORD-SAN FRANCISCO (15,000)—Stanford.

SANTA CLARA-MICHIGAN STATE (30,000)—Santa Clara.

MINNESOTA-PITT (35,000)—If the Minnesota backs have cross-country aspirations, this should be a good spot to show their stuff.

HARVARD-DARTMOUTH (40,000)—Since Harlow came to Harvard, he hasn't beaten Dartmouth. He's not likely to start here.

CARNEGIE TECH-NOTRE DAME (35,000)—Notre Dame should beat Carnegie even on an off day.

OHIO STATE-PURDUE (20,000)—Remember that Southern California rout? With an extra week's rest since then, Ohio State.

VANDERBILT-GEORGIA TECH (15,000)—The Commodores have been going along beating everybody without getting much credit for it. This one should be tough, but still Vanderbilt.

DUKE-COLGATE (17,000)—Duke.

COLUMBIA-GEORGIA (25,000)—Columbia's first big hurdle, which we are picking them to clear, if not by a very big margin.

FORDHAM-WEST VIRGINIA (2,000)—Before the season Jim Crowley said he feared the Mountaineers might be "as good as any team in the East." If he hasn't already done so, his Fordhams should revise that estimate for him tomorrow.

WISCONSIN-IOWA (25,000)—Beating a touchdown by Michigan, the Hawkeyes still looked very good Iowa.

TULANE-NORTH CAROLINA (40,000)—Tulane to come back.

HOLY CROSS-MISSISSIPPI (20,000)—Edge to Mississippi.

YALE-ARMY (55,000)—Taking Army.

LOUISIANA STATE-RICE (25,000)—Rice, in a battle.

TEMPLE-PENN STATE (30,000)—Temple and Tommie.

Hahnmen Defeat Keyser 26-19 in Valley Conference Clash

Coach Bill Hahn's Ridgeley high footballers scored their second Potomac Valley Conference victory and captured the Mineral county (W. Va.) scholastic championship by defeating the Keyser high Golden Tornado eleven 26-19 yesterday on the Ridgeley field.

The Hahnmen held a 13-0 edge at the half but in the last quarter, John Shelton's Keyserites went in a rampage to ring up three touchdowns to the Ridgeleyites' two.

Entire Racing Program To-day Was Threatened with Cancellation

W. MASON BRUNSON
LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17 (AP)—A dispute that threatened for a time to cancel the entire racing program here tomorrow was finally settled today. The Saturday program will be offered as scheduled, including a test for Alab., the two-year-old champion.

Members of the Maryland Horse and Jockey Protective Association, who refused to make entries for tomorrow's program, were granted the majority of the demands they had made upon the management and agreed after an extended conference to let the Saturday program go as it was finally pieced together.

The agreement also ended the threat of a walkout by jockeys and groomsmen sympathetic with the protective association.

J. B. Bek, of Charlottesville, Va., association president said that to satisfy practical purposes the demands of his organization had been satisfied.

The walkout was called by Major Good S. Stryker, track president and racing commission members.

The Protective association, a group of trainers and owners, had asked better lighting, sanitary sta-

Planning Program Is Needed Here, Engineer Declares

Flood Control and Relief from Traffic Problems Are Essential

Cumberland is at the "cross-roads" regarding a long range planning program for the relief of traffic problems, flood control, zoning ordinances, and other items affecting its future growth and "something must be done" if the city is to become better equipped along these lines, Jefferson C. Grinnalds, consulting engineer of Baltimore, told members of the chamber of commerce at yesterday's luncheon at the Port Cumberland hotel.

Grinnalds did not make any specific recommendations as he said that would be impossible without making a complete survey of the whole integrated problem. He did say, however, that he has read the report of United States engineers and the report of the Special Flood Control committee and the Conduct plan for flood control in this city.

As an indication of how a long-range planning program works out he told of a paper he read before the National Conference on Regional Planning in 1935 in which he advocated the use of the abandoned C. and O. canal as a recreational area and also mentioned the possibilities of "one-way streets in pairs," now termed dual highways.

The canal has been utilized in the past two years along a nine mile stretch west from Washington and has become a favorite play spot, Grinnalds said.

One important point brought out by the speaker was with reference to a flood control plan for Cumberland. This, he said, seems to be the focal point in any plan for the city. Everything else necessarily becomes integrated with this problem. Without a definite plan for this scourge no program would be complete, he added.

City planning in the old days around 1910 was mainly a system of arranging for "civic centers" and monuments, Grinnalds said, but nowadays you have taken into consideration the problem of automobile traffic and its myriad effects on the life of any city.

Discusses Traffic Problems

A plan for any city in the present time has to provide for highways, automobile parking, playgrounds, zoning, slum clearance, defense housing, flood control, conservation and other items. Cumberland has a bad traffic problem due to vehicles "funneling" in to the city from the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield plants, Grinnalds declared.

Grinnalds told of how this problem was met in several other cities of like size. Seaford, Delaware, was mentioned as one. The du Pont company erected a large plant there for the manufacture of nylon and traffic came into the city from three directions paralyzing traffic in the downtown area. The du Pont company presented a traffic plan to Seaford which provided several arteries away from the center of the city relieving the problem.

Grinnalds then went on to say that a "master plan" is the ideal way to care for future needs of any city. Under this system the master plan would be the guide whereby any single plan would have to conform to the general or master plan. The master plan is adopted only after an exhaustive survey and includes all factors which would affect future growth, health and hospital and school facilities.

In order to adopt the city zoning act it would be necessary to have legislation passed at the General Assembly to give the city such power, he added.

City Planning Outlined

The speaker told of reading Cumberland's flood control plans and mentioned the conduit plan which would cost around $7,250,000, the city paying $250,000 and the United States government the rest, as being in line with far-reaching plans for traffic easement and elimination of grade crossings, bridges, and the addition of another main artery of vehicular traffic in Cumberland.

Grinnalds' talk was based solely upon what evidently is needed here and some of the plans which would take care of these problems. Making no recommendations, he explored the whole system of city planning and its effects on the future welfare of communities which decide to embark upon such a venture.

The speaker is nationally-known and in addition to being a consulting engineer, is in charge of the zoning division of Baltimore and lectures at Johns Hopkins university on city planning.

SUIT CHARGES LEASE WAS FRAUDULENTLY ALTERED IN FROSTBURG

Charges that a lease was fraudulently altered are made in an unusual equity suit docketed in circuit court.

The plaintiffs, represented by William L. Wilson Jr., attorney, are Bernard C. Preston, Rachel Preston and Timothy B. Johnson, while the defendants are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Finzel.

Johnson was the owner of a store-room and dwelling at 46-A and 46-B East Loo street, Frostburg, and in May, 1939, entered into an agreement with the Finzels to lease the property for three years—from July 1, 1939, to June 30, 1942, the bill of complaint sets forth. Subsequently, in July 1940, Johnson deeded the property to the Prestons.

It was recently discovered that the lease, as recorded in the office of the circuit court clerk, calls for the lease to expire in June, 1944, instead of June, 1942, the suit goes on, declaring that this apparent two-year extension was "fraudulently made, without the consent and knowledge" of the plaintiffs.

The Prestons desire to occupy the property themselves in June, 1942, and accordingly ask the court to order that the lease be reformed and corrected.

Associate Judge William A. Huster signed an order directing the Finzels to show cause on or before December 16 why such an order should not be passed.

Seventy-second Fire Alarm Box Installed On Smallwood Street

Installation of a new fire alarm box at Smallwood and Poca streets, increasing to seventy-two the number in operation throughout the city, was announced yesterday by James Orr, police and fire commissioner.

The city plans to install boxes on Patterson avenue at Locust street and at a point on Greene street between Allegany street and The Dingle. Boxes for these two places were ordered some months ago.

The cost of each fire alarm box is estimated at $215.

Polomac Council Troops To Conduct Annual Roll Call

Inventory Opens November 1; Board Discusses Paper Shortage

Plans to conduct a roll call and inventory of every troop in Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, November 1 to 22, were approved at the regular monthly business meeting of the council's executive board Thursday evening in the office of John L. Dunkle, council president, at Frostburg.

District chairmen advised that eighty per cent of the roll call officials have been appointed and that a full roster will be concluded by the middle of next week. These roll call officers will arrange dates with the various scoutmasters.

Change Is Proposed

Ralph R. Webster, chairman of the council's committee for the annual meeting scheduled December 4, proposed that this be a business session primarily for council representatives and that the annual Scout Leaders Appreciation Dinner, previously combined with the annual meeting, be conducted as a separate affair later in the year and that the women be invited to the latter affair.

It was agreed that Potomac Council would accept the request of Leon Henderson, director of OPM, to do something about a serious national shortage of waste paper and paper stock. Julian Patrick, chemist at the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, reported the paper industry faces a shortage of four million tons of pulp from usual sources during 1942, and added that this must be made up from reclaimed waste. Full details of suggestions made will be incorporated in a bulletin to all scout leaders soon.

Progress Reported

Richard Rizer, chairman of the committee for organization, reported progress towards achieving a total of fifty troops and 1,100 scouts by December 31.

1,509 County Tags Taken Out; LeCompte Releases Upland Bulletin

With the opening of the upland game season in Allegany and Garrett counties less than two weeks off, a total of 2,631 licenses had been issued as of yesterday, according to figures released by the clerk of the court's office.

Of the licenses issued to date 1,122 are statewide, regarded as an unusual number, as compared to a total of 859 taken out for the entire season of 1939. The rush for statewide licenses at this early date is believed to have resulted from the fact that there are three different sets of dates for squirrel hunting this year in Western Maryland.

Plan To Speed Up Vehicular Traffic Is Discussed Here

Change in Baltimore Street Traffic Light System Is Proposed

A change in the Baltimore street traffic light system designed to speed up vehicular traffic approximately twenty per cent was discussed yesterday by Mayor Harry I. Trigg, Police Commissioner James Orr and Richard Wilcox, representative of the Automotive Signal Corporation, Newark, Conn.

The plan submitted by Wilcox calls for one white foot traffic light, instead of two as at present in each cycle of lights, and the addition of a yellow light as a warning signal to pedestrians at the intersection of George and Baltimore streets, Centre and Baltimore streets and Mechanic and Baltimore streets.

Under the new setup, as proposed by Wilcox, each traffic signal box on Baltimore street will contain four lights—red, green, white and yellow.

After making a survey of the local situation, Wilcox, who serves as representative for his company from New Jersey to Florida, said that traffic congestion can be relieved to a considerable extent on Baltimore street if less time is allowed to pedestrians crossing at the three intersections.

Wilcox said he had no solution to the traffic jam caused by the railroad trains blocking the crossing, adding that such a condition exists in many other cities.

While the new plan was thoroughly discussed yesterday in city hall, no definite action was taken on the matter, Commissioner Orr said.

Midland Church To Mark Anniversary

Grace Methodist Will Observe Laying of Cornerstone

Observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone will be observed by the Grace Methodist church of Midland commencing Sunday and lasting through the week. Special services will be held each evening in the church.

October 24, 1902 under the leadership of the Rev. D. Haskell, the cornerstone was laid and the congregation was housed in its present church. The first church was located at Wright's Crossing. The week will be dedicated to the men and women of yesteryear who conceived and helped to erect the church.

The program will open Sunday morning at 9:15 o'clock when church school will be conducted. Morning worship will be held at 11 o'clock and evening worship at 7:30 o'clock.

Monday a get-together will be held at the church and the history of the church will be given, as well as a discussion of the plans for the future. Tuesday the Rev. William A. Judy, former pastor of the church (1920-22) will deliver the sermon and Wednesday the Rev. Charles E. Shaw, former minister of the Presbyterian church of Midland will address the congregation.

Neighborhood night will be observed Thursday night with pastors of the surrounding district attending.

Friday the Rev. H. A. Kester, S.T.D. of Kingsley Methodist church, Cumberland, will speak. A social will follow the services with the ladies of the church serving refreshments. The choir will present special music each evening.
